Poetry.

What Is Glory.

What is glory? Say a feather
Mounted on the buoyant air,
Prey of every wind and weather,
Often sold, and seldom fair.

What is glory? Ask the maiden
Wedded to a titled drone,
Sick at heart and heavy laden—
Empty pageantry her own.

What is glory? Ask the garter
Twining round his grace's knee,
Wouldst thou ease and conscience barters
Such a thing on thine to see?

What is glory? Ask the lawyer,
Heedless trudging into court,
Harder work than any sawyer—
Ceaseless labor—less support.

What is glory? Ask the poet,
Pocket now and wishes high,
Wanting, and yet none must know it,
All but earth, and air and sky.

What is glory? Ask the sailor,
Weather beaten, tempest-tossed,
Ship his prison, winds his jailer,
Country, home and kindred lost.

What is glory? Hero striving
Madly over a ruined land,
What is glory? Time is gliding,
Death and judgment are at hand.

What is glory? Ask the Christian,
Looking for immortal joys,
He can wisely solve the question,
Heir, through Christ, of paradise.

Taken at the Flood!

Mr. Ledlamb spoke with supreme confidence. The friends of his patients had, as a rule, promised frequent visits to those sufferers, and as a rule had studiously refrained from the performance of their promises. Lady Perriam did not look to him like a person who would take much trouble about a deranged brother-in-law.

CHAPTER LIII.

SECRET AS THE GRAVE.

'We are agreed as to terms, the I' said Lady Perriam.

'Perfectly, my dear madam,' replied Mr. Ledlamb. 'Nothing could be more liberal than your proposal.'

'Then we have only to arrange matters of detail. Suppose I decide upon confiding my brother-in-law to your care, there would be some legal formalities to be gone through, I believe.'

'Undoubtedly. The patient must be seen by two medical men, and duly certificated as a lunatic.'

'So I understood. Now I do not care about bringing a second doctor to this house, if you decide that poor Mr. Perriam is insane, you could take him up to London, in the charge of his nurse, and the second doctor could see him at the hotel where you put up on your arrival.'

'Unquestionably, Lady Perriam that can be done.'

What could not be done for a patroness who was about to throw three hundred a year into Joseph Ledlamb's lap? He had been wearing out body and brain for twenty years of mortal strife with debt and difficulty, and had never yet compassed so large an income.

too well founded,' he began: 'an incurable derangement. Your brother-in-law is not in a position to be left without medical restraint. There is a rooted delusion mistaken sense of identity, which what curious in its nature, and a scientific mind eminently interesting.'

'Do not go into details,' interposed Lady Perriam: 'the subject is too painful. Do you pronounce my poor brother actually out of his mind?'

'I do. Without a moment's doubt.'

'And do you think any other would arrive at the same conclusion? I have no doubt of it.'

'In that case, the sooner he is removed from this house the better. I told Carter to have everything prepared for an immediate journey, should you, as you have decided. My carriage takes you, your patient, and him to the railway station. And now, Mr. Ledlamb, there only remains one question to be settled between us. Can I, as your physician, upon your solemn secret of Mr. Perriam's melancholy—the nature of his delusion, from a living creature, except those who he attend upon him?'

'Yes, Lady Perriam, you may trust implicitly.'

'Remember, if I hear that your broken faith with me in the smallest particular, I shall immediately move patient.'

'I do not fear such a contingency,' answered Mr. Ledlamb, firmly. 'We are likely to hazard three hundred a competence, wealth, by any ill-considered prating?'

'I'd cut Mrs. Ledlamb's tongue sooner than run the risk of losing a patient,' he said to himself.

'And you will leave for London with seeing any one whom you may know Monkhampton; you will avoid all communication with anyone in this neighborhood,' urged Lady Perriam.

'Certainly, madam. I have not in the habit of corresponding with Monkhampton people. The place was I means a lucky place for me, and I am a native of this country, I have affection for it. I have sometimes with Mr. Bain the lawyer, in London, and spent a friendly evening with him, but he is the only Monkhampton with whom I've kept up an acquaintance.'

'It will be best to avoid Mr. Bain. He is my agent, and it is who recommended you to me. I shall him that Mr. Perriam is in your but I distinctly forbid you ever to see your patient, should he come to house for that purpose. He was to a position of undue power by his husband, and he is too fond of interfering with my affairs. Should you see him any time, you will be as uncommunicative as possible.'

'Madam, I will be dumb.' And I do my best to avoid Shadrach. Lady Perriam rang the bell, and ordered dinner to be served for Mr. Ledlamb as soon as possible. She was alone the hour of his departure. But it not yet five o'clock, and she could not get him and his patient away so soon. The train left at half-past seven, and reached London at one in the morning. The carriage was ordered to be

'Let it be so, then. If you can conscientiously pronounce that Mr. Perriam is a lunatic, you will take him to London with you by to-morrow's mail, which leaves Monkhampton at half past eight.
It will be dusk by that time, and you will be able to get him away unnoticed.'

'Rely upon my discretion, Lady Perriam. There shall be no scandal, no discomfort to the patient. All shall be done quietly and agreeably. Above all, the nurse is efficient.'

'She is a good nurse, but timid. You will have to rule her with a stronger will than her own. She can remain with you for a week or two, till your patient grows accustomed to his new home. Indeed, she might remain altogether if it were necessary.'

'I do not apprehend that,' said Mr.
Ledlamb, quickly. 'The restraining and soothing influences of the home circle, aided by medical supervision, will, I trust,
do all that we can wish. I do not promise cure—my experience has not led me to believe that the majority of cases of mental derangement are amenable to actual cure. The brain once affected, can rarely be restored to its normal strength,' continued Mr. Ledlamb, gravely, with a view to the permanence of his three hundred a year.

'I do not expect to cure in this case,' replied Lady Perriam. 'There is here a fixed and rooted delusion, which I fear must be beyond cure. However you shall see your patient and judge for yourself.'

She rang a bell, which was answered after an interval of about five minutes by Mrs. Carter. She had come to Mordred's rooms, which were at the opposite end of the house.

The nurse's pale, grave face expressed poignant anxiety as she looked from Lady Perriam to the stranger, but her countenance gave no indication of surprise. She had evidently been prepared for this interview.

'How is your patient this afternoon,
nurse?' asked Lady Perriam.

'Pretty much as usual, my lady.'

'Still full of fancies, I suppose?' This implicitly.

the hour of his departure. But it not yet five o'clock, and she could get him and his patient away before seven. The train left at half-past eight and reached London at one in the evening.

The carriage was ordered to be at seven to take Mr. Perriam and nurse to the station.

'He is going away for change of air scene,' Lady Perriam told the butler whom she gave his order—'going in care of a medical attendant.'

'Poor dear gentleman! he goes without it,' said the butler, who had very little of Mordred since the late death, but he had gathered a mean idea of his condition from the talk of woman-servants, who had their influence from Mrs. Carter.

At seven Mr. Perriam was downtown, a curious figure in his old-fashioned clothes, a world to for that shrunken form—an eccentric looking figure, crowned with a brimmed white beaver hat, which almost extinguished him.

The carriage rolled away upon smooth gravel, the heavy door with a sonorous bang. He was gone.

'Will all go right at the station?'
thought. 'If they were only in London I should feel secure.'

She had told Mrs. Carter to telegraph to her as early as possible on the following morning. Till she received that graph she could know nothing more.

There were little rest that night.

fire. It brought relief and satisfac-

'Mrs. Carter, Paddington, to Lady Perriam Perriam

The nurse's pale, grave face expressed poignant anxiety as she looked from Lady Perriam to the stranger, but her countenance gave no indication of surprise. She had evidently been prepared for this interview.

'How is your patient this afternoon, nurse?' asked Lady Perriam.

'Pretty much as usual, my lady.'

'Still full of fancies, I suppose? This gentleman has come to see him. You can take him to Mr. Perriam's room.'

'Will you come with us, madam?' asked Mr. Ledlamb.

'No. I would rather you should form an unbiased judgement,' replied Sylvia. My presence might agitate my poor brother-in-law. He is accustomed to Mrs. Carter, and with her you will see him at his best.'

Mr. Ledlamb bowed and followed the nurse from the room, along the corridor, to the other end of the house, and into the large, shabby-furnished sitting-room lined from the floor to ceiling with dingy-bound books, where the last of the two brothers spent his joyless existence.

He looked a very old man as he sat by the fireless hearth, half buried in the roomy arm-chair, his shrunken limbs wrapped in a long dressing-gown of faded Indian cashmere, head bent upon his breast, idle hands hanging loosely at his sides; an image of imbecility—or despair.

Lady Perriam paced her room restlessly during the doctor's absence, now pausing for a moment to look at the clock on the mantel-piece now stopping by an open window to gaze out into distance with eyes that saw not the landscape's summer beauty. It was to the syzygy she looked with that quick, anxious gaze, dreading to see Mr. Bain's neat dog-cart advancing between the double range of trees. He had been at the Place only yesterday, and there was no reason why he should come to-day, except the one fact that his coming to-day would be fatal.

Mr. Ledlamb's absence seemed a great deal longer than it need have been. She looked at the door every now and then, eagerly expecting his return.

'This is the crisis of my fate,' she thought. 'If all goes well now, my future is safe.'

M. Ledlamb returned, and approached her with a grave and sympathetic countenance.

'Alas, dear lady, your fears were but ence from Mrs. Carter.

At seven Mr. Perriam was brooding downstairs, a curiously figure in his ill-fitting old-fashioned clothes, a world to be for that shrunken form—an eccentric looking figure, crowned with a brimmed white beaver hat, which also extinguished him.

The carriage rolled away upon smooth gravel, the heavy door closed with a sonorous bang. He was gone.

'Will all go right at the station?' thought. 'If they were only in London I should feel secure.'

She had told Mrs. Carter to telegraph to her as early as possible on the following morning. Till she received that telegraph she could know nothing more.

There were little rest that night. She could not keep her thoughts from following those travellers, or prevent her conjuring up possible difficulties which might arise to thwart her plans. Doubt and madness figured alternately in her confused vision.

The telegram arrived while Lady Perriam was seated before an untasted breakfast. It brought relief and satisfaction to her mind.

'Mrs. Carter, Paddington, to Lady Perriam, Perriam's near Monkhampton.'

'Arrived in London safely. Put up Jones's private hotel. Paddington, with no difficulty during journey.'

This was all, but it was sufficient to lighten Lady Perriam's anxieties. Next telegram would be from Mr. Lamb to tell her the result of his patient interview with the second doctor, whose opinion was to settle the fact of Mr. Bain's lunacy.

Sylvia's next anxiety was the expected letter from Edmund S. Anden. If he was on the first stage of his journey, letter ought to reach her by that afternoon's post. In the meanwhile she in the dark as to his intentions. Did he intend to forsake her, after swearing it was his she alone whom he loved? Could he be so mad as to fly from fortune, happiness? Or was his desire only designed to soften the blow to Esther Rochdale, to make the breaking of their engagement easier for her?

This was the view which Sylvia took of his conduct, and she waited with impatient expectation for the letter which was justify her hopes.

The telegram from Mr. Ledlamb came at three o'clock in the afternoon. 'Dr. Dervish, of Blundenham Square has seen the patient, and confirms opinion as to mental derangement. (Cicatoes and all preliminaries arranged. The patient accompanies me to the station this afternoon, with Mrs. Carter.'

That was all. How easily the news had been done!

There was an hour still to wait for afternoon post, which came to Pad at four—a weary hour in which to that heart-sickness of hope deferred. Sylvia dreaded a visit from Mr. Bain that afternoon was over. Was he to give her a long respite? Would not be impatient to have his question answered?

She thought of his wooing with its led bitterness and contempt, but not out a thrill of fear. His manner had plied some hidden power—a hold her which she trembled to think Never could she forget the agony of hour on the sun-lit terrace.

Poetry.

What Is Glory.

What is glory? Say a feather
Mounted on the buoyant air,
Prey of every wind and weather,
Often solid, and seldom fair.

What is glory? Ask the maiden
Wedded to a titled drone,
Sick at heart and heavy laden—
Empty pageantry her own.

What is glory? Ask the squire
Twining round his grace's knee,
Wouldst thou ease and conscience barter
Such a thing on thine to see?

What is glory? Ask the lawyer,
Useless trudging into court,
Harder work than any sawyer—
Ceaseless labor—less support.

What is glory? Ask the poet,
Pocketed and wishes high,
Wanting, and yet none must know it,
All but earth, and air and sky.

What is glory? Ask the sailor,
Weather beaten, tempest-tossed,
Ship his prison, winds his jailer,
Country, home and kindred lost.

What is glory? Here striding
Madly over a ruined land,
What is glory? Time is sliding,
Death and judgment are at hand.

What is glory? Ask the Christian,
Looking for immortal joys,
He can wisely solve the question,
Heir, through Christ, of paradise.

Taken at the Flood!

Mr. Ledlamb spoke with supreme confidence. The friends of his patients had, as a rule, promised frequent visits to those sufferers, and as a rule had studiously refrained from the performance of their promises. Lady Perriam did not look to him like a person who would take much trouble about a deranged brother-in-law.

CHAPTER XLIII.

SECRET AS THE GRAVE.

"We are agreed as to terms, the I said Lady Perriam.

"Perfectly, my dear madam," replied Mr. Ledlamb. "Nothing could be more liberal than your proposal."

"Then we have only to arrange matters of detail. Suppose I decide upon confiding my brother-in-law to your care, there would be some legal formulae to be gone through, I believe."

"Undoubtedly. The patient must be seen by two medical men, and duly certified as a lunatic."

"So I understood. Now I do not care about bringing a second doctor to this house. If you decide that poor Mr. Perriam is insane, you could take him up to London, in the charge of his nurse, and the second doctor could see him at the hotel where you put up on your arrival."

"Unquestionably, Lady Perriam that can be done."

What could not be done for a patroness

too well founded," he began: "an incurable derangement. Your brother-in-law is not in a position to be left without medical restraint. There is a rooted delusion, mistaken sense of identity, which is what curious in its nature, and of a scientific mind eminently interesting."

"Do not go into details," interrupted Lady Perriam: "the subject is too painful. Do you pronounce my poor brother actually out of his mind?"

"I do. Without a moment's hesitation."

"And do you think any other doctor would arrive at the same conclusion?"

"I have no doubt of it."

"In that case, the sooner he is removed from this house the better. I told Carter to have everything prepared for an immediate journey, should you decide as you have decided. My carriage takes you, your patient, and his nurse to the railway station. And now, Mr. Ledlamb, there only remains one question to be settled between us. Can I rely upon your keeping the secret of Mr. Perriam's melancholy state—the nature of his delusion, from every living creature, except those who have to attend upon him?"

"Yes, Lady Perriam, you may trust me implicitly."

"Remember, if I hear that you have broken faith with me in the smallest particular, I shall immediately move your patient."

"I do not fear such a contingency," answered Mr. Ledlamb, firmly. "Was he likely to hazard three hundred a year, competence, wealth, by any ill-advised prating?"

"I'd cut Mrs. Ledlamb's tongue out sooner than run the risk of losing such a patient," he said to himself.

"And you will leave for London without seeing any one whom you may know in Monkhampton; you will avoid all future communication with anyone in this neighborhood," urged Lady Perriam.

"Certainly, madam. I have not been in the habit of corresponding with Monkhampton people. The place was by no means a lucky place for me, and though I am a native of this county, I have no affection for it. I have sometimes met with Mr. Bain the lawyer, in London, and spent a friendly evening with him, but he is the only Monkhampton man with whom I've kept up an acquaintance."

"It will be best to avoid Mr. Bain in future. He is my agent, and it was he who recommended you to me. I shall tell him that Mr. Perriam is in your care, but I distinctly forbid you ever to let him see your patient, should he come to your house for that purpose. He was raised to a position of undue power by my late husband, and he is too fond of interfering with my affairs. Should you see him at any time, you will be as uncommunicative as possible."

"Madam, I will be dumb. And I shall do my best to avoid Shadrach Bain."

Lady Perriam rang the bell, and ordered dinner to be served for Mr. Ledlamb as soon as possible. She was anxious for the hour of his departure. But it was Struck by an Iceberg.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE OF A CANADIAN-BORED STEAMER.

The steamship Viking, from London to Montreal, had a terrible experience. About three hundred miles off the Canadian coast at midnight on the 16th inst., the vessel struck an iceberg with a tremendous crash. Some of ice fell on the deck, and the taffrail towards the stern was swept away. The boats were ordered to be got out—a result which, according to a correspondent, "the crew made frantic efforts to accomplish." The difficulty attending the clearing away of the boats, which are almost invariably crowded with freight, seemed to speed in the darkness, and the usual character of the scene, "there were nearly 80 men at the pumps, and the water was nearly as high as the masts, and it seemed as if we could not get the boats launched in time." Fortunately they were not needed, an examination showing that while she had a narrow leak a yard long knocked in her bottom, six feet above the water line, below she was all right and seaworthy. Daylight found the vessel surrounded with innumerable mountains of ice, but with fair weather she escaped them, and ran the gauntlet of the ice fields in the gulf up to Quebec.

The Coldest Town in the World.

This is Yakutsk (or Yakobisk), chief town of the province of that name in Eastern Siberia, on the left bank of the river Lena, 62 degrees one minute north, longitude 149 degrees 44 minutes east, and distant from St. Petersburg 4,951 miles. The ground remains continually frozen to the depth of two hundred feet, except in midsummer, when it thaws three feet at the surface. During ten days in August the thermometer marks 85 degrees, but from November to February it ranges from 42 to 68 degrees below zero, and the river is solid ice for nine months out of the year. The entire industry of the place—population about five thousand—is comprised in candleworks, and yet it is the principal market of Eastern Siberia for traffic with the hunting tribes of the Buriats. The former, mostly nomadic, having large herds of horses and cattle, bring to market butter, which is sent on horseback to the post of Okhotsk. The Buriats, also nomadic, bring quantities of skins of sables, foxes, martens, hares, squirrels, and the like, and many of them are sold at the great fair in June, which, with May, is the active period of the year. In May the collected goods are conveyed to the steamer, whence they are sent to every corner. The merchandise, chiefly furs and mammoth tusks, sold at the fair, amount in value to 400,000 roubles, ($100,000).

An Immense Devil Fish.

Capt. Joseph Hall of the brigantine Caribbean, arrived from the West Indies, reports that on the outward passage, about eighty miles south-west of Cape Sable, he saw about seven miles off what appeared to be a great rock, but knowing there were no rocks in that vicinity they ran toward it to discover what it was. As they approached closer the captain thought it was a can buoy, which had recently got adrift, and getting still nearer, it had the appearance of a large wreck, bottom up. They sailed on until almost within 200 feet of what they at last made out to be an immense devil fish. Both Capt. Hall and Capt. McCray give the following as what they think to be the dimensions of the huge monster: Its length was ninety feet, width, twenty feet, while it was about twelve feet above the surface of the water. Its eyes, which were not very large, were under water, while near its head was a large balloon about eighteen feet across which looked as though made of silk. Its color was a pinkish grey, while the main body of the fish was a dark grey, and around it seemed to be a fringe, which also had a reddish appearance. By going up the rigging a short distance they could see its arms or feelers, which were ten in number, from twelve to eighteen feet long. These, where the balloon connected with the main body of the fish, seemed to be about the thickness of a man's leg. They had a good view of the strange creature as they approached it broadside, and then ran across its bows. It appeared to be going through the water about three or four miles an hour, and propelling itself with the arms above described.

A Dog and a Doctor Save a Child.

Shortly after noon yesterday, as Dr. Porter, the phrenologist, was walking along briskly in the vicinity of the corner of Utica and Tomkins streets, he noticed a dog trying to pull some object from the running water in the ditch at that point. At first glance it seemed to be some inanimate thing, such as a bundle of rags, but upon looking again the doctor was startled to discover that it was a child, with its head under water. The dog had hold of the clothing, and was straining every muscle to haul the weight to the bank, but did not appear to have strength enough to do it. The doctor quickly covered the 30 feet intervening between himself and the spot, and in an instant he had a child 12 or 14 months old in his arms. The babe was in a faint, and to all appearances nearly dead, but fortunately the doctor's efforts to expel the water from its lungs were rewarded with success, and in a little while the plump little boy opened its wondering eyes and looked around. The faithful dog looked on while the doctor worked to restore life, and acted as though he understood that his duty

'Unquestionably, Lady Perriam that can be done.'

What could not be done for a patroness who was about to throw three hundred a year into Joseph Ledlamb's lap? He had been wearing out body and brain for twenty years of mortal strife with debt and difficulty, and had never yet compared so large an income.

'Let it be so, then. If you can conscientiously pronounce that Mr. Perriam is a lunatic, you will take him to London with you by to-night's mail, which leaves Monkhampton at half past eight. It will be dusk by that time, and you will be able to get him away unnoticed.'

'I rely upon my discretion, Lady Perriam. There shall be no scandal, no discomfort to the patient. All shall be done quietly and agreeably. Above all, the nurse is efficient.'

'She is a good nurse, but timid. You will have to rule her with a stronger will than her own. She can remain with you for a week or two, till your patient grows accustomed to his new home. Indeed, she might remain altogether if it were necessary.'

'I do not apprehend that,' said Mr. Ledlamb, quickly. 'The restraining and soothing influence of the home circle, aided by medical supervision, will, I trust, do all that we can wish. I do not promise cure—my experience has not led me to believe that the majority of cases of mental derangement are amenable to actual cure. The brain once affected, can rarely be restored to its normal strength,' continued Mr. Ledlamb, gravely, with a view to the permanence of his three hundred a year.

'I do not expect to cure in this case,' replied Lady Perriam. 'There is here a fixed and rooted delusion, which I fear must be beyond cure. However you shall see your patient and judge for your self.'

She rang a bell, which was answered after an interval of about five minutes by Mrs. Carter. She had come to Mordred's rooms, which were at the opposite end of the house.

The nurse's pale, grave face expressed poignant anxiety as she looked from Lady Perriam to the stranger, but her countenance gave no indication of surprise. She had evidently been prepared for this interview.

'How is your patient this afternoon, nurse?' asked Lady Perriam.

Lady Perriam rang the bell, and ordered dinner to be served for Mr. Ledlamb as soon as possible. She was anxious for the hour of his departure. But it was not yet five o'clock, and she could hardly get him and his patient away before seven. The train left at half-past eight, and reached London at one in the morning.

The carriage was ordered to be ready at seven to take Mr. Perriam and his nurse to the station.

'He is going away for change of air and scene,' Lady Perriam told the butler, to whom she gave his order—'going in the care of a medical attendant.'

'Poor dear gentleman! he do seem to want it,' said the butler, who had seen very little of Mordred since the baronet's death, but he had gathered a melancholy idea of his condition from the talk of the woman-servants, who had their intelligence from Mrs. Carter.

At seven Mr. Perriam was brought downstairs, a curious figure in his ill-fitting old-fashioned clothes, a world to wide for that shrunken form—an eccentric looking figure, crowned with a broad brimmed white beaver hat, which almost extinguished him.

The carriage rolled away upon the smooth gravel, the heavy door closed with a sonorous bang. He was gone.

'Will all go right at the station?' she thought. 'If they were only in London, I should feel secure.'

She had told Mrs. Carter to telegraph to her as early as possible on the following morning. Till she received that telegraph she could know nothing more.

There were little rest that night. She could not keep her thoughts from following those travellers, or prevent her fancy conjuring up possible difficulties which might arise to thwart her plans. Death and madness figured alternately in those confused visions.

The telegram arrived while Lady Perriam was seated before an untasted breakfast. It brought relief and satisfaction to her mind.

'Mrs. Carter, Paddington, to Lady Perriam, Perriam Place, near Monkhampton.'

'Arrived in London safely. Put up at Jones's private hotel, Paddington. Met with no difficulty during journey.'

This was all, but it was sufficient to lighten Lady Perriam's anxieties. The next telegram would be from Mr. Ledlamb to tell her the result of his patient's

Students at the Boston Institute of Technology have designed a rival to the g-m puzzle which is beginning to excite considerable interest. Given two words of an equal number of letters, the problem is to change one to the other by altering one letter at a time of the first so as to make a legitimate English word, continuing the alterations until the desired result is attained. The conditions are that only one letter shall be altered from each new word, and that none but words which can be found in English dictionaries shall be used. Here are some examples for the changes:

East to west—East, vast, west.

Boot to shoe—Boot, soot, shot, shoe.

Dog to cat—Dog, dig, pig, pit, fit, fat, cat.

Milk to hash—Milk, mile, male, mate, hate, hath, hash.

Road to rail—Road, rood, root, coot, coat, coal, coil, toil, tail, rail.

Soup to fish—Soup, soul, soil, foil, fowl, fool, foot, coot, cost, cast, fast, fist, fish.

The game is becoming popular, says the Springfield Republican, in railroad offices as well as in family circles and at firesides, and seems to furnish instruction with amusement.

The Final Scene.

Writing from Chicago on Thursday, the correspondent of the New York Herald says of the Republican convention:—'Nobody knows what donkeys American strikers are until he sees them in what they are pleased to term their deliberations. They are worse than lunatics on a spree. They beat volunteer fire departments' palmetto jamborees. A box of Dutch picnics, an Irish shindig, an American campaigning, a Chinese frolic and a French communists' tete combined, intensified and enthused, would give but a faint suggestion of the uncontrollable-ness of the mob in the galleries and the thoughtlessness of the fanatics on the floor to-day. After screaming for 15 minutes they pointed benches, tables, and floor and yelled. They put all the banners except New York's together, turned a pyramid over Garfield's head

How Screws are Made.

The process of making a screw is very interesting. The rough large wire in big coils is, by drawing through a hole smaller than itself, made the size needed. Then it goes into a machine that at one moment cuts it a proper length and makes a head on it. Then it is put into sawdust and 'rattled' and thus brightened. Then the head is shaved down smoothly to the proper size and the neck put in at the same time. After 'rattling' again in the sawdust, the thread is cut by another machine, and after another rattling, and thorough drying, the screws are assorted by hand (the fingers of those who do this move almost literally like lightning), grossed by weight and packed for shipping. That which renders it possible for machines to do all this is a little thing that looks like and opens and shuts like a goose's bill, which picks up a single screw at a time, carries it where needed, holds it until grasped by some thing else, and returns for another. This is about the most wonderful piece of automatic skill and usefulness I have ever seen, and it has done its distinctive work at the rate of 3 screws a minute, although this rate is only experimental as yet. 93 gross per day, however has been the regular work of one machine.—*Providence (R.I.) Canadian Ladies at Court.

She rang a bell, which was answered after an interval of about five minutes by Mrs. Carter. She had come to Mordred's rooms, which were at the opposite end of the house.

The nurse's pale, grave face expressed poignant anxiety as she looked from Lady Perriam to the stranger, but her countenance gave no indication of surprise. She had evidently been prepared for this interview.

"How is your patient this afternoon, nurse?" asked Lady Perriam.

"Pretty much as usual, my lady."

"Still full of fancies, I suppose? This gentleman has come to see him. You can take him to Mr. Perriam's room."

"Will you come with us, madam?" asked Mr. Ledlamb.

"No. I would rather you should form an unbiased judgement," replied Sylvia. My presence might agitate my poor brother-in-law. He is accustomed to Mrs. Carter, and with her you will see him at his best."

Mr. Ledlamb bowed and followed the nurse from the room, along the corridor, to the other end of the house, and into the large, shabbily-furnished sitting-room lined from the floor to ceiling with dingily-bound books, where the last of the two brothers spent his joyless existence.

He looked a very old man as he sat by the fireless hearth, half buried in the roomy arm-chair, his shrunken limbs wrapped in a long dressing-gown of faded Indian cashmere, head bent upon his breast, his hands hanging loosely at his sides; an image of imbecility—or despair.

Lady Perriam paced her room restlessly during the doctor's absence, now pausing for a moment to look at the clock on the mantelpiece now stopping by an open window to gaze out into distance with eyes that saw not the landscape's summer beauty. It was to the syzygy she looked with that quick, anxious gaze, dreading to see Mr. Bain's next dog-eared advancing between the double range of trees. He had been at the Place only yesterday, and there was no reason why he should come to-day, except the one fact that his coming to-day would be fatal.

Mr. Ledlamb's absence seemed a great deal longer than it need have been. She looked at the door every now and then, eagerly expecting his return.

"This is the crisis of my fate," she thought. "If all goes well now, my future is safe."

M. Ledlamb returned, and approached her with a grave and sympathetic countenance.

"Ah, dear lady, your fears were but

"Mrs. Carter, Paddington, to Lady Perriam, Perriam Place, near Monkhampton."

"Arrived in London safely. Put up at June's private hotel, Paddington. Met with no difficulty during journey."

This was all, but it was sufficient to lighten Lady Perriam's anxieties. The next telegram would be from Mr. Ledlamb to tell her the result of his patient's interview with the second doctor, whose opinion was to settle the fact of Mr. Perriam's lunacy.

Sylvia's next anxiety was the expected letter from Edmund Sanden. If he wrote on the first stage of his journey, the letter ought to reach her by that afternoon's post. In the meanwhile she was in the dark as to his intentions. Did he intend to forsake her, after swearing that it was his she alone whom he loved? Could he be so mad as to fly from love, fortune, happiness? Or was his departure only designed to soften the blow to Esther Rochdale, to make the breaking of their engagement easier for both?

This was the view which Sylvia took of his conduct, and she waited with intense impatience for the letter which was to justify her hopes.

The telegram from Mr. Ledlamb came at three o'clock in the afternoon.

"Dr. Derbish, of Blunden Square, has seen the patient, and confirms my opinion as to mental derangement. Certificates and all preliminaries arranged. The patient accompanies me to the Arbor this afternoon, with Mrs. Carter."

That was all. How easily the business had been done!

There was an hour still to wait for the afternoon post, which came to Perriam at four—a weary hour in which to suffer that heart-sickness of hope deferral. And Sylvia dreaded a visit from Mr. Bain ere that afternoon was over. Was he likely to give her a long respite? Would he not be impatient to have his audacious question answered?

She thought of his wooing with mingled bitterness and contempt, but not without a thrill of fear. His manner had implied some hidden power—a hold upon her which she trembled to think of. Never could she forget the agony of that hour on the sun-lit terrace.

Writing from Chicago on Thursday, the correspondent of the New York Herald says of the Republican convention:—"Nobody knows what donkeys American strikers are until he sees them in what they are pleased to term their deliberations. They are worse than lunatics on a spree. They beat volunteer fire departments' palmist jamborees. A dozen Dutch picnics, an Irish shindig, an American campaigning, a Chinese frolic and a French communists' tete combined, intensified and enthused, would give but a faint suggestion of the uncontrollable-ness of the mob in the galleries and the thoughtlessness of the fanatics on the floor to-day. After screaming for 15 minutes they pounced benches, tables, and floor and yelled. They put all the banners except New York's together, turned a pyramid over Garfield's head and sang, with the voice of sixteen thunder, 'Italy round the flag boys,' the band leading and all in unison. That part of it was superb. Deacon Richard Smith stood on a table and cried like a baby. O her good men did the same, and I don't envy them whose blood didn't hurry up a little under the pressure and who, for a moment at least, failed to take in a sense of the extraordinary scene. It was an event in the life of the nation."

Retrenchment.

Ottawa Free Press.

Intensely amusing is the excuse put forward by the chief organ for the removal of Mr. Kingsford—"because the Government is anxious to retrench." The Mail must imagine the public preternaturally blind and stupid when it puts forward an argument of this kind. Let us take a glance at this "retrenchment." Two ministers at $7,000 a year each now do the work that Mr. Mackenzie performed alone; an additional deputy Minister has been appointed for the Department of the Interior; a high commissioner with military attaché cost $14,000 a year; Mr. Trutch has been named Dominion commissioner in British Columbia at $5,000 salary, and $5 per day as travelling expenses; the stipendiary magistrates of British Columbia have been superannuated, and two additional judges appointed for that province. Since the change of government superannuations have increased 35 per cent.; post office expenditure has been increased by $128,080 per annum, and the cost of the civil service raised by $94,000 a year. Talk of retrenchment after that!

"Is it becoming to me?" she asked, as she paraded in the costume of one hundred years ago, before the man who is not her lord and master, but is her husband. "Yes, my dear," said he meekly. "Don't you wish I could dress this way all the time?" she asked. "No, my dear," he replied; "but I wish you had lived when that was the style."

wire in big coils is, by drawing through a hole smaller than itself, made the seize needed. Then it goes into a machine that at one moment cuts it a proper length and makes a head on it. Then it is put into sawdust and "rattled" and thus brightened. Then the head is shaved down smoothly to the proper size and the nick put in at the same time. That which renders it possible for machines to do all this is a little thing that looks like and opens and shuts like a goose's bill, which picks up a single screw at a time, carries it where needed, holds it until grasped by something else, and returns for another. This is about the most wonderful piece of automatic skill and usefulness I have ever seen, and it has done its distinctive work at the rate of 31 screws a minute, although this rate is only experimental as yet. 93 gross per day, however has been the regular work of one machine.—*Providence (R.I.) Canadian Ladies at Court.

The London Court Journal of the 15th ult., in the account of the Queen's drawing-room, held on the Tuesday previous, contains the following reference to Canadian ladies and the dresses worn by them: Miss Isabelle Macpherson (daughter of the Speaker of the Senate): Train of rich ivory brocade velvet en brette, lined with satin and trimmed with lace, over an ivory satin duchesse petticoat embroidered with fine seed pearls. Miss Macpherson's dress was one of the handsomest at the drawing-room, and was especially becoming to her beauty and elegant figure. The Hon. Mrs. D. L. Macpherson's costume de cour was admired by every one, the arrangement of black and gold being highly becoming to her. Her diamonds were likewise greatly admired. Mrs. Macpherson wore train, embroidered with gold satin, attached to the shoulders with diamond ornaments, lined with satin and trimmed with black Chantilly lace, over a black duchesse satin petticoat, trimmed with real gold lace and fringe. Head-dress, tulle and plume; ornaments, diamonds. Mrs. Stano Stanley (daughter of Sir John Rose) was attired as follows: Train and corsage of shaded Kruzeau satin merveilleuse, lined with silver tissue, and bordered with white jet embroidery and lace, over a dress of white satin brocade, trimmed with tulle, lace and clusters of white lilacs and narcissus flowers. Head-dress, diamonds, plume and veil; ornaments, diamonds.

A Flutter of Social Excitement

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 13th.—A short time ago the engagement of Miss Rachel Rosenbaum, daughter of Philip Rosenbaum, a rich clothing merchant in this city, to M. Livingstone, of Beaver City, Utah, was announced. Mr. Rosenbaum, however, learned that Livingstone had been divorced from his wife, and consequently wrote him breaking off the engagement with his daughter. Livingstone demanded his presents back, but was refused. He then began a suit to recover the valuables, claiming that they were given only on condition of marriage. During the past week the case has been settled by Miss Rosenbaum turning over to the attorneys for Livingstone, all the jewellery and defraying a portion of the costs. Today Miss Rosenbaum was married in grand style to M. Hervich, of Toronto. The marriage following so closely the breaking off of the former engagement has created no little excitement.

STRUCK BY AN ICEBERG

DAZING ESCAPE OF A CANADIAN.
— STEAMER.

The schooner Viking, from London, encountered a terrible experience. On about three hundred miles off Newfoundland at midnight on the 16th, the vessel struck an iceberg with a tremendous crash. Some of ice fell on deck, and the vessel towards the stern was swept away. The boats were feared to be lost, but—a result which, owing to a correspondent, "the crew made fantastic efforts to accomplish." The boats attending the clearing away of the iceberg, which are always invariably sent on, were unable to proceed in the usual manner, but were forced to the usual character of the vessel, which were nearly 80 miles from the coast, and the vessel was in a position to be seen and to be seen as if we could not have been located in three." Fortunately they were not needed, an examination showing that while she had a few holes and some knocked in her hull, she was in a position to be seen, below she was all right and seaworthy. Day light found the vessel encircled with innumerable mountains of ice, but with fair weather she escaped them, and ran the gauntlet of the ice fields in the gulf up to Quebec.

The Coldest Town in the World.

This is Yakutsk (or Yakobiak), chief town of the province of that name in eastern Siberia, on the left bank of the Lena, 62 degrees one minute north, latitude 149 degrees 44 minutes east, and distant from St. Petersburg 4,951 miles. The ground remains continually frozen to the depth of two hundred feet, except in midsummer, when it thaws several feet at the surface. During the month of August the thermometer marks 45 degrees, but from November to February it ranges from 42 to 68 degrees below zero, and the river is solid ice for nine months out of the year. The entire country of the place—population about 15,000—is comprised in candle-land, and yet it is the principal market of Eastern Siberia for traffic with the hunting tribes of the Buriats. The former, mostly nomadic, having large herds of horses and cattle, bring to market their milk, which is sent on horseback to the city of Olenok. The Buriats, also nomadic, bring quantities of skins of foxes, hares, martens, hares, squirrels, and the like, and many of them are sold at the end of June, which, with May, is the best period of the year. In May the collected goods are conveyed to the city, whence they are sent to every corner. The merchandise, chiefly furs and mammoth tusks, sold at the fair, amounts in value to 400,000 roubles. An Immense Devil Fish.

Capt. Joseph Hall of the brigantine Caribbean, arrived from the West Indies, reports that on the outward passage, about eighty miles south-west of Cape Sable, he saw about seven miles off what appeared to be a great rock, but knowing there were no rocks in that vicinity they ran toward it to discover what it was. As they approached nearer the captain thought it was a can buoy, which had recently got adrift, and getting still nearer, it had the appearance of a large wreck, bottom up. They sailed on until almost within 200 feet of what they at last made out to be an immense devil fish. Both Capt. Hall and Capt. McGray give the following as what they think to be the dimensions of the huge monster: Its length was ninety feet, width, twenty feet, while it was about twelve feet above the surface of the water. Its eyes, which were not very large, were under water, while near its head was a large balloon about eighteen feet across which looked as though made of silk. Its color was a pinkish grey, while the main body of the fish was a dark grey, and around it seemed to be a fringe, which also had a reddish appearance. By going up the rigging a short distance they could see its arms or feelers, which were ten in number, from twelve to eighteen feet long. These, where the balloon connected with the main body of the fish, seemed to be about the thickness of a man's leg. They had a good view of the strange creature as they approached it broadside, and then ran across its bows. It appeared to be going through the water about three or four miles an hour, and propelling itself with the arms above described.

A Dog and a Doctor Save a Child.

Shortly after noon yesterday, as Dr. Porter, the phrenologist, was walking along briskly in the vicinity of the corner of Utica and Tomkins streets, he noticed a dog trying to pull some object from the running water in the ditch at that point. At first glance it seemed to be some inanimate thing, such as a bundle of rags, but upon looking again the doctor was startled to discover that it was a child, with its head under water. The dog had hold of the clothing, and was straining every muscle to haul the weight to the bank, but did not appear to have strength enough to do it. The doctor quickly covered the 30 feet intervening between himself and the spot, and in an instant he had a child 12 or 14 months' old in his arms. The babe was so inebriated, and to all appearances nearly dead, but fortunately the doctor's efforts to expel the water from its lungs were rewarded with success, and in a little while the plump little boy opened its wondering eyes and looked around. The faithful dog looked on while the doctor worked to restore life, and acted as though he understood that help had come to his little playmate. While at play it had fallen into the ditch

Gladstone's Ingenious Supplementary Budget.

LONDON, June 12.—Gladstone's supplementary budget constitutes the great political event of the day. Everybody—Greenwood, of the St. James' Gazette, excepted—admits the extraordinary ingenuity displayed in the new financial proposals. Every essential feature in the scheme has surprised alike Liberals and Tories. The secret was perfectly kept, Cabinet Ministers themselves being hardly aware of Gladstone's intentions till the eve of the delivery of the speech. It was supposed that the negotiations with France for a reduction of the wine duties had failed, and French Tories alleged the failure to be one of the reasons for Say's resignation as ambassador. The brewers are delighted, because they will be relieved of much taxation interference. Business classes, who pay the income tax, will endure the additional penny cheerfully, confident that the burden will only be temporary. The country generally relies implicitly on Gladstone's financial genius to guard against the fiscal impositions next year. Beer drinkers hail the prospect of cheap beer and order beer. The brilliant success of the Chamber distracts attention momentarily from various interesting troubles in the Liberal party.

How Screws are Made.

The process of making a screw is very interesting. The rough large wire in big coils is, by drawing through a hole smaller than itself, made the size needed. Then it goes into a machine that at one moment cuts it a proper length and makes a head on it.
Then it is put into sawdust and "rattled" and thus brightened. Then the head is shaved down smoothly to the proper size and the neck put in at the same time. After "rattling" again in the sawdust, the thread is cut
by another machine, and after another rattling, and thorough drying, the screws are assorted by hand (the fingers of those who do this move almost literally like lightning), grossed by weight and packed for shipping. That which renders it possible for machines
to do all this is a little thing that looks like and opens and shuts like a goose's bill, which picks up a single screw at a time, carries it where needed, holds it until grasped by something else, and returns for another.
This is about the most wonderful piece of automatic skill and usefulness I have ever seen, and it has done
its distinctive work at the rate of 31
screws a minute, although this rate is only experimental as yet. 93 gross per day, however has been the regular work of one machine.—*Providence (R

The Piano as a Fatal Weapon.

An extraordinary duel took place at Valparaiso, not long ago, in which the weapons used proved to be terrible instruments of torture. Two rival professors of music had a quarrel, and one challenged the other.
The challenged had the right of choice of weapons, and he chose the piano. The conditions of the duel were that neither of the duellists should eat or drink until "honor" was satisfied, and that no waltzes or lively airs should be played. Seconds were appointed, and for forty-eight hours dead marches and *Miserere*s were played without ceasing, until finally one of the musicians fell to the floor dead, after having played the same Miserere 150 times. The other musician became insane, and the two seconds were ill for some time. This story is vouched for by a truthful

by the charms of a young gipsy girl belonging to a tribe that had squatted in the neighborhood of his farm, induced

and finally obtained her consent to become his wife. He received several warnings from sundry of her gipsy
lovers couched in threatening terms,
but was so infatuated by her surprising
beauty that he disregarded these mo-nitions and married her. On his wedding night a number of stalwart gipsy youths broke into his house,
seized him in his bridal bed, bound him
to a plank, and deliberately sawed him
in two, having previously strangled his young wife before his eyes. On the same night the tanner struck his tents and decamped, nor have the authorities as yet succeeded in laying hands upon the perpetrators of the crime.

The Final Scene.

Writing from Chicago on Thursday, the of the Republican convention:—

obody knows what donkeys American esmen are until he sees them in what a French communist's fete combined, unified and enthused, would give but not suggestion of the uncontrollable-

Retrenchment.

Ottawa Free Press.

Intensely amusing is the excuse put ward by the chief organ for the reval of Mr. Kingsford—"because the vernment is anxious to retrench." The til must imagine the public preter-rally blind and stupid when it puts ward an argument of this kind. Let take a glance at this "retrenchment."

ommissioner with military attaché cost

de Dominion commissioner in Britolumbia at $5,000 salary, and $5

additional judges appointed for that ment superannuations have increased 35

the head is shaved down smoothly to

again in the sawdust, the thread is cut
by another machine, and after another
rattling, and thorough drying, the
screws are assorted by hand (the fingers
of those who do this move almost literally like lightning), grossed by weight and packed for shipping. That which renders it possible for machines
to do all this is a little thing that looks like and opens and shuts like a goose's bill, which picks up a single screw at a time, carries it where needed, holds it until grasped by something else, and returns for another.
This is about the most wonderful
piece of automatic skill and usefulness I have ever seen, and it has done
its distinctive work at the rate of 31
screws a minute, although this rate is only experimental as yet. 93 gross

work of one machine.—*Providence (R.

Canadian Ladies at Court.

The London Court Journal of the 15th ult., in the account of the Queen's drawing-room, held on the Tuesday previous, contains the following reference to Canadian ladies and the dresses worn by them: Miss Isabelle Macpherson (daughter of the Speaker of the Senate): Train of rich ivory brocade velvet on brette, lined with satin and trimmed with lace, over an ivory satin duchesse petticoat embroidered with fine seed pearls.
Miss Macpherson's dress was one of the handsomest at the drawing-room, and was especially becoming to her beauty and elegant figure. The Hon. Mrs. D. L.
Macpherson's costume de cour was charited by every one, the arrangement of black and gold being highly becoming to her.
Her diamonds were likewise greatly admired. Mrs. Macpherson wore train, embroidered with gold satin, attached to the shoulders with diamond ornaments, lined with satin and trimmed with black Chantilly lace, over a black duchesse satin petticoat, trimmed with real gold lace and fringe. Head-dress, jappet and plume; ornaments, diamonds. Mrs. Stano Stanley (daughter of Sir John Rose), was attired as follows: Train and corsage of shaded Etresan satin gervillouse, lined with silver tissue, and bordered with white jet embroidery and lace, over a dress of white satin brocade, trimmed with tulle, lace and clusters of white lilies and narcissus flowers. Head-dress, diamonds, plume and veil; ornaments, diamonds.

A Flutter of Social Excitement.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 13th.—A short time ago the engagement of Miss Rachel Rosenbaum, daughter of Philip Rosenbaum, a rich clothing merchant in this city, to M. Livingston, of Beaver City, Utah, was announced. Mr. Rosenbaum, however, learned that Livingston had been divorced from his wife, and consequently wrote him breaking off the engagement with his daughter. Livingstone demanded his presents back, but was refused. He then began a suit to recover the valuables, claiming that they were given only on condition of marriage.
During the past week the case has been settled by Miss Rosenbaum turning over to the attorneys for Livingston, all the jewellery and defraying a portion of the costs. Today Miss Rosenbaum was married in grand style to M. Herrich, of Toronto.
The marriage following so closely the breaking off of the former engagement has created no little excitement.

A Gipsy Vengeance.

A few weeks ago a respectable old peasant farmer in Roumelia, smitten
by the charms of a young gipsy girl belonging to a tribe that had settled in the neighborhood of his farm, induced
the maiden to listen to his addresses,
and finally obtained her consent to become his wife. He received several warnings from sundry of her gipsy
lovers couched in threatening terms,
but was so infatuated by her surprising
beauty that he disregarded these mo-nitions and married her. On his wedding night a number of stalwart
gipsy youths broke into his house,
seized him in his bridal bed, bound him
to a plank, and deliberately sawed him
in two, having previously strangled his young wife before his eyes. On the same night the tribe struck its tents and decamped, nor have the authorities as
yet succeeded in laying hands upon the
perpetrators of the crime.

Score One for the Irish Party.

LONDON, June 12.—It has fallen to the Irish party to inflict the first defeat on Mr. Gladstone's Ministry. On Saturday morning a motion was made calling upon the Government for information, showing the number of stipendiary magistrates in Ireland who had received a legal training previous to their appointment. For prudential reasons the Government refused to oppose the motion.
The Ministers did not expect that the question would be reached on Saturday,
and allowed their supporters to disperse.
The English members abandoned the House till 2 a.m. it was converted into an Irish Parliament, and when Cavendish challenged a division in behalf of the Government he had the mortification to find himself in a minority of nineteen,
while Parnell scored thirty-nine votes,
and for the first time enjoyed the satisfaction of a victorious encounter with the treasury benches. The announcement of this result was received by the Irish members with ringing cheers seldom heard at Westminster.

A Scene from Hales.

An English preacher, who bears the appropriate name of Furniss, has been preaching a singularly red-hot sermon on hell and the devil. He gravely says: "The roof is red-hot. The floor is a thick sheet of red-hot iron. See, on the middle of that floor stands a girl. She looks to be about 16 years of age. She has neither shoes nor stockings on her feet. The door of the room has never been opened since she first set her foot on this red-hot floor. Now she waits the opening.
She rushes forward. She has gone down upon her knees upon the red-hot floor. Listen! She says: 'I have been standing with my bare feet on this red-hot floor for years. Day and night my only standing place has been on this hot floor. Sleep never came on me for a moment that I might forget this horrible burning floor. Look at my burnt and bleeding feet. Let me get off this burning floor for one moment—only for a short moment. Oh, that, in this endless eternity of years, I might forget the pain only for one single moment.'
The devil answers her question: 'Do you ask for a moment—for one moment—to forget your pain? No, not for a single moment during the never-ending eternity of years shall you ever leave this red-hot floor.' Mr. Furniss locates his hell in the centre of the earth, and it is 4,000 miles from the earth's surface on either side.

would have been happier if she could have exchanged some of the empty pomp and ceremony attending her fun-during her lifetime. Yet there are many women, doubtless, who think that respect and love are commonplace possessions, and that it would be a grand thing to be an empress.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, JUNE 18, 1880.

POLITICAL PERSECUTION.

SINCE the beginning of the investigation into the financial condition of this county, the red herring that has been trailed across the scent to divert public attention from the real issue and to shield the guilty party from the results of his misdeeds, has been the cry of "political persecution." Backed by this taking phrase, prominent members of the Conservative party, both in and out of the county council, have done all they could do to obstruct the labors of the commissioners, to prevent the truth from coming to light, to further compromise the financial interests of the county, to keep the coach's lips to the county coffers, to prevent, perhaps, personal complicity from being brought out by full investigation and to cover the Reform party with odium and false accusations of attempts to blacken the character and ruin the standing of the most estimable of men; but their mouths are now closed. The cry has now ceased to be heard and the miserable molehill of "political persecution" lies buried under the mountain of stubborn facts. The confession of guilt of the late treasurer has left his amiable apologists and virtual abettors without a leg to stand on, and the more honest of his political friends in the county council last session took the initiative in bringing him to book. At the January and March sessions of the county council, the majority of the council, in political accord with the late treasurer, some of them doubtless with honest intentions, carried out the policy of obstruction and delay in regard to the commissioner's report. But last week the tables were turned. Public opinion in the constituencies began to find expression, electors threw out dark hints that it was time that child's play should give place to manly action, and as a consequence we find members of unquestioned loyalty to the Tory party moving and seconding the adoption of the report of the commissioners. If Reform members had moved in the matter the "political persecution" cry would have been heard again. The latest results of the investigation prove beyond a doubt that the promoters of it were justified in the action they took last fall. To them belongs the credit of having raised the sixteen year's siege against the public chest which continuously and uniformly came out second best; to them it is due that there is a clear gain of $23,000 to the county funds; to them it is due that we have on hand now enough of funds to clear off the floating indebtedness of the county; to them it is due that the little leaks that have been sinking the ship for years have been plugged and the little fiscal gnatlet thrown into the well; to them it is due that the management of our financial affairs is placed on a sounder basis; to them it is due that hereafter there will be more watchfulness, that the county interests will not hereafter be flagrantly and criminally

to accept them and pay charges. And why should not the Reform party in this riding keep itself in fighting trim? The work of organization has to be done, and it should not be postponed till the cry is heard, "the Philistines be upon thee."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

THE investigation into the county finances has resulted in the recovery of enough funds, besides the monstrous $11,000, to pay off the floating indebtedness of the county. So much for "political persecution."

MANY outspoken commentators say that after the ex-treasurer's misadventures of contradiction and equivocal shuffling on the default matter, they haven't the heart to longer defend him even on political grounds yet they can swallow the Pacific scandal and all its heroes without a grimace.

THE Sarnia Observer puts a spoke in the wheel (without a fly on it) of the N. P. by stating that during the past eight months 60,000 Canadians have entered the United States as settlers at Port Huron, Michigan, alone. And it very much the same all along our lengthy boundary line. It is unaccountable why people will fly by this way from prosperity, humming industries and the universal benefactions of the N. P.

THE BYSTANDER is strong for abolition of the Senate. "It is an experiment in constitution building that has failed." "Its members are not older nor more sedate, nor wiser nor better informed than those of the House of Commons." "As a check on legislation it is useless, because there is no real power but that which rests on the suffrages of the people." The Senate is declared to be a "political infirmary," and GOLDWIN might have added, a hospital for political incurables.

IT is now asserted that no appointment will be made to the collectorship of Toronto until the vacancy in west Toronto caused by the appointment of Mr. J. B. ROBINSON as lieutenant-governor is filled. Willy Sir JOHN. He will keep the collectorship dangling before the eyes of a score of candidates for the position, securing their active support in the election, and when the election is over he will shut down on the whole "billy" and appoint collector the man whose name he has had and has now in his breast pocket.

THE rumoured dismissal of some of our local postmasters is, it seems, justified by their neglect of their duties. The Arden postmaster, it appears, mislaid for a short time some assessment rolls sent to his office. The parcel being too large to go into the pigeon holes, was placed elsewhere, and was not forthcoming on demand, but it was not lost nor delayed so as to produce any serious results. But then that is a peg big enough to file a dismissal on, and it seems Mr. Mills must go. The heinousness of the offence of the postmasters of Odessa and Newburgh, whose names are also on the black list, has not transpired, but it is to be concluded that it is something as serious as putting a

FLOATING BRIDGE.

On Tuesday next, 22nd inst, the corner stone of a new M. E. Church will be laid with Masonic honors. The ceremony will be performed by Dr. T. K. Ross, of Odessa, D. D. G. M., and will take place at high noon. Several addresses have been invited and will likely be present. After the corner stone is laid, dinner will be served in the adjoining grove, after which several talented ministers will deliver addresses. A choir and other persons will be present to furnish vocal and instrumental music, and no trouble will be spared to make the occasion one of profit, interest, and enjoyment. The new church will be a frame, and its size will be 26 x 40. The contractor, Mr. Miles Storms, has entered into an agreement to have it ready for dedication by the middle of October. The building committee is composed of Messrs. Chester Nicholson, Stewart Smith, Jno. Gallagher, Wm. Cook, and Harvey Snider. The material, timbers, sash, doors, seats etc., will be made by Messrs Rathbun & Son, Mill Point, and will be shipped and laid down on the spot ready for erection. This lot, connected with that of the corner stone being laid with Masonic ceremonies, makes the Floating Bridge Church similar in mode of construction and grandeur of purpose, if not in size, to Solomon's temple. It is only once conference that Rev. Mr. Stratton has had the project in hand, but he has pushed it with his accustomed vigor and energy, and the above is the result of his efforts. Here it may not be out of place to mention the tribute paid to the Rev. gentleman's zeal and pious industry, shown by the warm welcome extended to him on his return to Odessa circuit, by every one of his congregations. Not only is he appreciated, but he is well worthy of the appreciation.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Our representative in township affairs took his departure last week, as usual, to attend the sixth session of parliament at Selby and as a result of the meeting Mr. A. Provins is out letting contracts for the improvement of the different roads in this part of Richmond. It is pretty evident when a whole "Provins" is watching, criticising and helping conduct the business of a township, things are sure to go tolerably correct.

ANNEST ISLAND.

Mr. D. Fowler, the facile princeps water color artist of the Dominion was an exhibitor at the Kingston Art Exhibition, and we gladly quote from the Whig the following complimentary notice:

Of the venerable D. Fowler's work we will speak in the highest praise, for there is more real merit in his than perhaps all the rest put together, be it the production of old age. He is known to the public as the man who relinquished the pencil in early life only to resume it again at an age when most men have lost all ambition. His works are beautiful and reflect in the poetic nature of his mind. In his poor dead birds, lying amidst the stubble and dead herbage of the wood may be seen a deep and hidden meaning by those who will. Death and immortality have been portrayed from earliest time by painters of every school of thought. Fowler has given us death without a resurrection. Let his pictures be sacred wherever they may be found, and he himself be called the father of Canadian art.

ROUND ABOUT US.

BELLEVILLE.

The N. P. is something like a mule, it may stand when up, out it has to be helped to its feet. Belleville council is to appoint a select committee to secure manufacturing industries to the city. Industries were to spring up spontaneously; but business, tax collectors and other aids are apparently necessary.

The Corporation, at its present financial, will soon need again the services of Mr. Morden, as commissioner, to inquire into its finances. Recently an account of the "Intelligencer" for printing, was presented to the council amounting to $247, which by some means was made to appear as $3 and it was ordered to be paid, and by the time the order got to the treasurer it was $447. This amount the treasurer paid to the "Intelligencer" Company is $2000 of its account and taxpayers $200 short.

The Hastings County Council at its last session voted a grant of $150 to purchase helmets, for the company of the 49th B and $50 to the Hastings Rifle association. Catch our County Council squandering funds in that way!

The first shipment of phosphate will made to England this week. The price has advanced to $10 per ton.

Since the 1st of May 845 emigrants have arrived in Kingston and been placed.

If "political persecution" has done this, let us have more of it and in the very highest legislative and administrative circles of the country too, if the late treasurer is a "political party" let us make them by the score and impale every public man that betrays a public trust whether he sits in the premier's chair or studies guile in the precincts of a county treasurer's office, and let us relegate them to their original obscurity and fill their places with honest men.

ORGANIZE.

In one thing and in one thing only—except, of course, honesty and competency—does the Conservative party excel the Reform party and that is in the excellence and completeness of its political organization, both general and local. The wires are always in good order and the wirepullers are kept to their work like galley slaves. The party is ready in the way of organization, for any political emergency that may arise. Reformers are too prone to rely on the soundness of their platform and the right of their cause to the neglect of strategic preparations, and when an election is sprung upon the country, time is lost in marshalling and bring-

TRUE merit is modest and keeps shady. The immortal five of the County Council, who voted against the adoption of the commissioners report last Friday, must feel something in this way; but, recognizing the modesty spoken of, we will rescue their names and deed from oblivion. The five gentlemen who would have paltered with so grave a question longer, and would have risked the public interest from motives best known to themselves, are the following:

ALLAN CATON, reeve of Newburgh.
ARCHIBALD DOWNEY, reeve of South Frederickburgh.
GEORGE PAUL, reeve of Camden.
MILTON H. WILLIAMS, deputy reeve of Camden.
DANIEL GILMOUR, deputy reeve of Sheffield.

Sticking to a political friend closer than a brother, may have a great deal of merit, but these gentlemen were not sent to council to stick to anything political. They were elected to guard the people's interests, and from their action in voting against the adoption of the commissioners report, the only evidence of the right of the county to retain the sums paid in by the sureties of the late treasurer as their share of responsibility for his default, the people's interests are as safe in their keeping as a spring chicken in the care of a fox. Failing to adopt the commissioners report would have left the sureties in a position to successfully demand the re-payment of their $9,000, and that they would have done so is pretty certain, had the immortal five got five others to go with them, and the $9,000 paid in by the sureties would have followed the $32,000 mislaid by the late treasurer, into the dusky limbo of unaccountability and incompetency.

Provins is out letting contracts for the improvement of the different roads in this part of Richmond. It is pretty evident when a whole "Provins" is watching, criticising and helping conduct the business of a township, things are sure to go tolerably correct.

As is only natural one of our finest young men gave up his "oneness" the other day and has procured a mate, as he did not like the idea of crossing the ocean of life without a sailing master.

The zealous workers for good of this neighborhood have organized a Sabbath School.

Some young sportsmen, not very far around here either, from the circular shape of the gunbarrel or their eyes, while attempting to shoot some wood birds, as we suppose, shot some of the innocent canine race. Be careful boys for you are not so sure when you may be a dog yourself.

On Sunday morning during the great storm which passed over this section, Mr. P. McGuiness' barn was struck by lightning, and would have burned had it not been for the presence of mind of Mr. McG. who ran to the barn with a couple of pails of water and extinguished the flames; but nevertheless the building was pretty well torn by the lightning.

NEWBURGH.

The Corporation, at its present financial position, will soon need again the services of Mr. Morison, as commissioner, to inquire into its finances. Recently an account of "Intelligence" for printing, was presented to the council amounting to $247, which by some means was made, to appear as $3 and it was ordered to be paid, and by the time the order got to the treasurer it was $447. This amount the treasurer paid to the "INTELLIGENCE" Company is $200ab of its account and taxpayers $200 short.

The Hastings County Council at its 1 session voted a grant of $150 to purchase helmets, for the companies of the 49th E and $50 to the Hastings Rifle association. Catch our County Council squandering funds in that way.

KINGSTON.

The first shipment of phosphate will be made to England this week. The price has advanced to $10 per ton.

Kingston's two tax collectors, out $80,000, left only $300 uncollected.

Since the 1st of May 845 emigrants have arrived in Kingston and been placed.

It is said that the Kingston & Port Hope railway will this year extend its road, so far as the Ontario government have granted a bonus for it.

Six hundred dollars have been raised by private subscription for Dominion Day celebration.

Kingston is doing a jumping business in the exportation of frogs to "the state." The Maud takes a large quantity of the amphibious sculents, caught and dried at Sharbott Lake, to Cape Vine every morning.

DIOCESE OF ONTARIO.

MEETING OF THE SYNOD.

On Tuesday last the eighteenth synod of this diocese opened in St. George's Hall. As usual divine service was previously held, even song being held in Cathedral on Monday evening. The sermon was preached by Rev. Rural D. Bogert of Napanee his text having been Acts x v 30, 31.

The synod opened for business at 11 Tuesday morning. The attendance of the clergyman was uncommonly large, lay delegates were thinly represented. The delegates from this county were:

Napanee, Rev. Rural Dean Bogert; J. B. McGuin; Amherst Island Rev. Roberts, R. Montgomery; Bath, Rev. F. Echlin; Camden Rev. A. Elliot; L. L. Price, Selby and Salmon River Rev. D. F. Bogert and A. McLeod; T. worth, Rev. D. F. Hutchinson; Tyngs, Rev. E. H. M. Baker.

BISHOP'S ADDRESS.

His lordship presented a list of parishes he had visited and number confirmed since last meeting of the synod which showed that 1,223 had been confirmed, 480 males and 840 females.

Eight Churches were consecrated during the year.

A Natural.

When a person has proved an art and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it is intended, he will readily abandon it for one of doubtful reputation, or concerning which he knows nothing. We are led to make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and truly valuable horse-medicine known as "Parley's Condition Powder and Arab Heave Remedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other many have waited several weeks until agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as a condition medicine, or for any complaint affecting wind of horses. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lym, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada sold by all Medicine Dealers.

For over twenty years "Bryan's" medicinal "suffers" have maintained their position for curing coughs, colds, and ants; to them it is due that hereafter gardens will not go to sleep in their seats, nor clothe their eyes with willing winks to shut out from their vision "ways that are dark and tricks that are not—vain," to them it is due that tax payers will not be robbed right and left, and that their hard earnings will not be "misaid" or diverted from their legitimate uses, by slovenly incompetence. If "political persecution" has done this, let us have more of it and in the very highest legislative and administrative circles of the country too, if the late treasurer is a "political party" let us make them by the score and impale every public man that betrays a public trust whether he sits in the premier's chair or studies guile in the precincts of a county treasurer's office, and let us relegate them to their original obscurity and fill their places with honest men.

ORGANIZE.

In one thing and in one thing only—except, of course, honesty and competency—does the Conservative party excel the Reform party and that is in the excellence and completeness of its political organization, both general and local. The wires are always in good order and the wirepullers are kept to their work like galley slaves. The party is ready in the way of organization, for any political emergency that may arise. Reformers are too prone to rely on the soundness of their platform and the right of their cause to the neglect of strategic preparations, and when an election is sprung upon the country, time is lost in marshalling and bringing into the field, forces that should always be ready. Bismark has always kept his battalions in marching order, bristling with fixed bayonets and he made short work of the grand armies of France—grand only on paper. It is true that the party in this riding has an organization on paper, but is it ready in every respect for a fight that may be called any moment? It is important at this time that the work of organization should be perfected; the lukewarm should be aroused, the ardent and impetuous should have his efforts directed into a channel of intelligent and concerted action. Into every Reformer's hand in the riding a weapon should be placed, its aim directed to strike home to some certain and definite object. The whole party should be as a unit and every member of it a host in himself. No precautions should be left untaken, no possible contingency unprovided for. Complete organization is imperatively necessary; without it failure is probable and success only a matter of chance, and momentous interests should not be left to the caprice of chance. The righteousness of any cause never wrought its triumph without the aid of earnest concerted efforts. Politicians speaking we know not what a day may bring forth, but we should be prepared to meet whatever it may bring. Our opponents will be ready; they have the advantage of knowing when a move is to be made and will be prepared to meet it. The U. E. O. of Toronto, keeps constantly on hand a choice selection of ready made candidates, to be shipped C. O. D. to any constituency gullible enough

County Council, who voted against the adoption of the commissioners report last Friday, must feel something in this way; but, recognizing the modesty spoken of, we will rescue their names and deed from oblivion. The five gentlemen who would have paltered with so grave a question longer, and would have risked the public interest from motives best known to themselves, are the following:

ALLAN CATON, reeve of Newburgh.
ARCHIBALD DOWNEY, reeve of South Fredericksburgh.
GEORGE PAUL, reeve of Camden.
MILTON H. WILLIAMS, deputy reeve of Camden.
DANIEL GILMOUR, deputy reeve of Sheffield.

Sticking to a political friend closer than a brother, may have a great deal of merit, but these gentlemen were not sent to council to stick to anything political. They were elected to guard the people's interests, and from their action in voting against the adoption of the commissioners report, the only evidence of the right of the county to retain the sums paid in by the sureties of the late treasurer as their share of responsibility for his default, the people's interests are as safe in their keeping as a spring chicken in the care of a fox. Failing to adopt the commissioners report would have left the sureties in a position to successfully demand the repayment of their $9,000, and that they would have done so is pretty certain, had the immortal five got five others to go with them, and the $9000 paid in by the sureties would have followed the $32,000 mislaid by the late treasurer, into the dusky limbo of unaccountability and incompetency.

YARKER.

On Thursday morning a party of twenty Yarker ladies and gentlemen, arrived in Napanee en route to Picton on a day's pleasuring to Picton per steamer Flight. They drove to town, halted at the Tichborne House and laid in supplementary supplies at the Manchester Fruit Depot and then away for a days pleasure on the finest waters in the Dominion. The party consisted of Dr Cannon and wife, Major West and wife, H R Purcell and wife, Sanley Amey and wife, Hugh Cambridge and wife, Isaac Benjamin and wife, Wm Gordon and wife, Geo McDonald and wife, Mr Ewart and wife, Miss Shibly and Mrs Cyrenus Huffman.

The young men of the Methodist Church of Canada and Jas. McKim intend holding a strawberry festival and garden party at the residence of Mr. Jas. McKim on Tuesday 22nd inst. To begin at six o'clock. Mrs. Booth of Odessa is visiting her many friends here, and is the guest of Mrs. Hope. Rev. E. Shibley of Teterville, who is on a visit to the village, preached two impressive sermons to attentive congregations in the C. M. Church last Sunday.

Dr. Knowles of Nassau, Bahama formerly a student of Newburgh High School arrived here on Tuesday. The Dr. does not look very well as he was ill three weeks previous to his coming. We hope to see him rapidly recruit.

A Garden Party will be held on the grounds of the C. M. parsonage on July 23rd. The refreshments will consist of ice-cream, strawberries and lemonade. Music will be rendered by the band. Choir of the Church and others.

Mrs. D. Bell residing between here and Clarks Mills met with a severe accident on Wednesday last. She was going with her son to Varty Lake, in a wagon, when the horses took fright, threw her out off the wagon fracturing her arm badly and making several bruises on different parts of her body. The son received no injuries.

On Tuesday Mr. A. Marling M. A. one of the provincial High School Inspectors paid our High School a visit and subjected it to a thorough inspection. The result of the inspection was gratifying to teachers and inspector.

ERNESTTOWN.

FLOATING BRIDGE.

On Tuesday next, 22nd inst, the corner stone of a new M. E. Church will be laid with Masonic honors. The ceremony will be performed by Dr. T. K. Ross, of Odessa, D. D. G. M., and will take place at high noon. Several lodges have been invited and will likely be present. After the corner stone is laid, dinner will be served in the adjoining grove, after which several talented ministers will deliver addresses. A choir and other persons will be present to furnish vocal and instrumental music, and no trouble will be spared to make the occasion one of profit, interest, and enjoyment. The new church will be a frame, and its size will be 26 x 40. The contractor, Mr. Miles Storms, has entered into an agreement to have it ready for dedication by the middle of October. The building committee is composed of Messrs. Chester Nicholson, Stewart Smith, Jno. Gallows, Wm. Cook, and Harvey Snider. The material, timbers, sash, doors, seats etc., will be made by Messrs Rathbun & Son, Mill Point, and will be shipped and laid down on the spot ready for erection. This fact, connected with that of the corner stone being laid with Masonic ceremonies, makes the Floating Bridge Church similar in mode of construction and grandeur of purpose, if not in size, to Solomon's temple. It is only since conference that Rev. Mr. Stratton has had the project in hand, but he has pushed it with his accustomed vigor and energy, and the above is the result of his efforts. Here it may be out of place to mention the tribute paid to the Rev. gentleman's zeal and pious industry, shown by the warm welcome extended to him on his return to Odessa circuit, by every one of his congregations. Not only is he appreciated, but he is well worthy of the appreciation.

Mr. D. Fowler, the facile princeps water color artist of the Dominion was an exhibitor at the Kingston Art Exhibition, and we gladly quote from the Whig the following complimentary notice:

Of the venerable D. Fowler's works we will speak in the highest praise, for there is more real merit in his than perhaps all the rest put together, being the production of old age. He is known to the public as the man who relinquished the pencil in early life only to resume it again at an age when most men have lost all ambition. His works are beautiful and reflect in them the poetic nature of his mind. In his poor dead birds, lying amidst the stubble and dead herbage of the woods, may be seen a deep and hidden meaning by those who will. Death and immortality have been portrayed from earliest time by painters of every school of thought. Fowler has given us death without a resurrection. Let his pictures be sacred wherever they may be found, and he himself be called the father of Canadian art.

ROUND ABOUT US.

BELLEVEILLE.

The N. P. is something like a sleek mule, it may stand when up, but it has to be helped to its feet. Belleville city council is to appoint a select committee to secure manufacturing industries for the city. Industries were to spring up spontaneously; but houses, tax collectors and other aids are apparently necessary.

To the Public.

THE TENDENCY OF THE TIMES has been of late years marked by an increasing demand for something cheap, and in every department of life useful commodities have been produced in a degree suited to the demand, and we are daily becoming aware that the value of all as the price has become so cheap to be either profitable or desirable, and the old saying, "cheap and nasty," is now applied as a general characteristic of cheap goods.

We hereby recommend our former friends, to whom, more than any other class, the worthlessness of cheapness has become manifest, to be satisfied of the truth of the foregoing. All are unanimous in saying

"CHEAP [GOODS ARE DEAR."

During a business experience extending over a period of eighteen years, we have made it a cardinal principle, "that if a thing is worth doing it is worth doing well," and the application of this rule has given such general satisfaction in the past that we have determined on no account whatever to depart from the production of "cheap goods," such as are advertised on every side. We have no intention of lowering the standard with a view to defeat the public without any benefit to the producer. Business is simply an exchange of commodities for the mutual accommodation of the parties interested, and this exchange of commodities implies a corresponding exchange of values. This exchange of values promotes the success so much desired by all business men. This being the case, we have determined to compete with our trade-fellows only in the production of the best article the market can afford in our line, and we are happy to be in a position to assure the public that we will act be outside.

QUALITY, VARIETY, AND RELIABILITY,

coupled with an honest desire to get and give value and satisfaction, shall be the end and aim of my business.

While thanking my numerous customers for their liberal patronage in the past, I have much pleasure in calling the attention of the general public to my large stock of manufactured work, which will be found to comprise all varieties of

On Tuesday last the eighteenth synod of this diocese opened in St. George's Hall. As usual divine service was previously held, even song being held in the Cathedral on Monday evening. The sermon was preached by Rev. Rural Dean Bogert of Napanee his text having been, Acts x v 30, 31.

The synod opened for business at 11.30 Tuesday morning. The attendance of clergyman was uncommonly large, but lay delegates were thinly represented. The delegates from this county were:

Napanee, Rev. Rural Dean Bogert and J. B. McGuire; Amherst Island Rev. W. Roberts, R. Montgomery; Bath, Rev. A. F. Echlin; Camden Rev. A. Elliot and L. L. Price, Selby and Salmon River. Rev. D. F. Bogert and A. McLeod; Tamworth, Rev. D. F. Hutchinson; Tyendinaga, Rev. E. H. M. Baker.

BISHOP'S ADDRESS.

His lordship presented a list of the parishes he had visited and number confirmed since last meeting of the synod, which showed that 1,323 had been confirmed, 480 males and 840 females.

Eight Churches were consecrated during the year.

When a person has proved an article and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it is intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtful reputation, or concerning which he knows not thing. We are led to make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and truly valuable horsemedicine known as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Herve Remedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any others many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as a condition medicine, or for any complaint affecting the wind of horses. Remember the name, and see that that the signature of Hurd & Co., is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., [proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.]

For over twenty years "Bryan's Pulmonic Asters" have maintained their reputation for curing coughs, colds and pulmonary complaints, should at once give them a trial. They give almost immediate relief, and if taken in time generally effect a cure. Remember that a common cold or cough, if not attended to in time, often leads to that distressing and fatal disease—consumption. Sold by all druggists and country dealers at 25cts a box.

NEWBURGH.

Our village is generally quiet. Not much business being done at present.

Mrs. Booth of Odessa is visiting her many friends here, and is the guest of Mrs. Hope. Rev. E. Shibley of Teterville, who is on a visit to the village, preached two impressive sermons to attentive congregations in the C. M. Church last Sunday.

Dr. Knowles of Nassau, Bahama formerly a student of Newburgh High School arrived here on Tuesday. The Dr. does not look very well as he was ill three weeks previous to his coming. We hope to see him rapidly recruited.

A Garden Party will be held on the ground of the C. M. parsonage on July 1st. The refreshments will consist of ice-cream, strawberries and lemonade. Music will be rendered by the band. Choir of the Church and others.

Mrs. D. Bell residing between here and Clarks Mills met with a severe accident on Wednesday last. She was going with her son to Varty Lake, in a wagon, when the horses took fright, threw her out off the wagon fracturing her arm badly and making several bruises on different parts of her body. The son received no injuries.

On Tuesday Mr. A. Marling M. A. one of the provincial High School Inspectors paid our High School a visit and subjected it to a thorough inspection. The result of the inspection was gratifying to teachers and inspector.

The Misses Grants who were living on a farm about a mile from here moved into the village this week.

PERRY DAVIS & SON & LAWRENCE,

PROPRIETORS,

MONTREAL AND PROVIDENCE, R. I.

To the Public.

THE TENDENCY OF THE TIMES has been of late years marked by an increasing demand for something cheap, and in every department of life useful commodities have been produced in a degree suited to the demand, and where daily necessities are concerned, and as the price has become so cheap to be either profitable or desirable, and the old saying "cheap and nasty" is now applied as a general characteristic of cheap goods.

We have only to consult our former friends, to whom, more than any other class, the worthlessness of cheap goods has become manifest, to be satisfied of the truth of the foregoing. All are unanimous in saying

"CHEAP GOODS ARE DEAR."

During a business experience extending over a period of eighteen years, we have made it a special principle, "that if a thing is worth doing, it is worth doing well," and the application of this rule has given such general satisfaction in the past that we have determined on no account whatever to drift into the production of cheap John wares, such as are advertised on every street corner. Hence we can no longer be induced to sell our goods at a price which would be a sacrifice to the public, but we are determined to stand by our principles, and to produce only the best quality of goods, and to sell them at a price which will be a fair return for the material and the labor of the parties interested, and the advantage of commodities implies a corresponding advantage of value, this advantage of value promotes the success so much desired by all business men. This being the case, we have determined to compete with our rivals, not only in the production of the best article the market can afford in our line, and we are happy to be in a position to assure the public that we will not be outdone.

QUALITY, VARIETY, AND RELIABILITY,

supplied with an honest desire to get and give value and satisfaction, shall be the end and aim of our business.

While thanking my numerous customers for their liberal patronage in the past, I have much pleasure in calling the attention of the general public to my large stock of manufactured work, which will be found to comprise all varieties of

and many other articles too numerous to mention. Special attention will be given to

REPAIRING AND JOB WORK,

which will be done with neatness and despatch. All work warranted. Collars a Specialty.

UNDER THE

NEW MANAGEMENT OF THE "EXPRESS,"

We, with pleasure, occupy this column, through which we hope to reach a large and respectable class of readers who are not reached by our advertisements in either of the other local papers. We will try to make our column as interesting as possible, without adopting,

however, the tactics of some merchants who advertise Thousands of yards of this and that at almost no price, to attract customers, who upon enquiring, find the goods

Just Sold Out. Falsehood and exaggeration

will be conspicuous by their absence.

Misrepresentation may beget a small present gain, but at a future, great loss. It produces want of confidence, and no business can be conducted successfully without confidence between buyer and seller. We believe this can only be obtained and retained by a system of truth-telling and honorable dealing, which we have endeavored to pursue from the beginning.

We are gratified to find from the very large business we have had since we purchased the late HOOPER STOCK, that our efforts have been so well appreciated. We have a quantity of the Bankrupt Stock left in every department, which, of course we are enabled to sell much less than the present wholesale cost. We were also very fortunate in making our Spring Purchases very early, and before the late heavy advances were put upon all classes of goods, this coupled with the fact that we pay cash down for them, thus being enabled to buy in the Cheapest Markets, has gained us a decided advantage over others in

About ten days ago a little daughter of Mr. Jas. Armstrong fell down stairs. She was thought to be but little injured, but it was discovered that her collar bone was broken. Dr. Brown had to break it after it was partially knit and set it. She is doing nicely now.

Boys Merino Shirts and Drawers at Slaven's

Debiture Bylaw.

The voting on the bylaw to raise $5,000. to retire debentures maturing July, 1st, took place on Monday and it attracted about as much attention as a first class lecture. The bylaw was carried by a majority of 31--35 votes for the bylaw and 4 against it.

We have the right spring work for the interest of our customers, and that makes it interesting.

Horses for Manitoba.

On Wednesday a carload of sixteen horses destined for Manitoba and purchased and shipped by Mr. Stirling Alguire of Painesville, passed through here. It is said there is a good market for horses in the North West and Mr. Alguire's second shipment is a consequence of the success of the first.

These wollen mills are now fixed up in first class condition; new machinery has been added, a spinning jack the best made, and the mill has been generally renovated and repaired and is now in condition to turn out the best possible work. Mr. Perry and his mill are both established and reliable and the public can count on getting satisfaction.

Another Nest of Iniquity.

On Monday night a raid was made on a moral pest house, the Humphrey habitation, and Mrs. Humphrey, Mary Baldwin and ———— Marsh were arrested. The hearing of the case was set down for to-day, (Friday). It is to be hoped that these characters will be punished to the full extent of the law, and that no rest will be taken till the various other nests of iniquity that pollute the moral air and poison the domestic peace of Nananee, are rooted out like noxious weeds. Put them in jail; it is of no use to send them out of town, they will be sure to come back more brazen than ever.

Bad and Only Bad.

All the mistaken kindness, and straining of points of law and equity that Fred Davis got the benefit of in the Harshaw case did no good. Last Sunday night night watch-man, Emberson, aroused him from a drunken sleep on East street and in return for the kindness Davis assaulted Mr. E. and beat him shamefully. A warrant was issued for his arrest but the police couldn't catch him as he fled the town. A few more escapes and Fred will think himself above all law, order and decency.

A Pre-historic Relic.

Mr. Inspector Burrows has shown us a copper corn planter found under a large pine stump hundreds of years old on his father's farm in the township of King near Toronto. The implement is about four inches long, two wide, and is made of unsmelted copper, simply beaten out, the handle dove-tailed into it. It must be of an age beyond any of the Indian tribes known to our history and Mr. B. thinks it is worth its weight in gold.

Our Iron Mines.

On Saturday last we had the pleasure of an interview with a Mr. Haman Chicago, representative of an iron works in Michigan in which iron is smelted on improved economic principles. In the manufacture of the charcoal used for smelting one of the residual products is an excellent alcohol. The firm he represents is a wealthy one, and Mr. H. was so impressed with the richness of our iron ores that, in communication is opened into Sheffield the firm will start smelting works here. Mr. H. also had with him asbestos gloves time the draft of a bill for the purpose be prepared and submitted to the council at its next session for approval. I port adopted.

FACING THE MUSIC.

Moved by Mr. Wilson, seconded Mr. Joyner, that whereas this council have accepted from the sureties of late treasurer the amounts for which they were liable to the county as at session and have been given receipt therefor, and whereas the council has affirmed in any way that such money were justly due and that the right to cover and appropriate the same exist and as the basis and only evidence such right is the report of commission appointed to examine into the finances of the county, be it therefore resolved that the report of the said commission be and is hereby adopted by this council.

THE DELAY DODGE.

Street Loafers.

Very many complaints have been made to us respecting Dundas street on Sundays. While the public are going to Church every shop doorway almost is filled with young men who would not like to be called loafers, from whose mouths issue foul obscene jokes and sometimes still fouler language. Criticisms on lady worshippers en route to church are freely indulged in, making them very uncomfortable and sometimes very much ashamed. Why don't the authorities prevent these things? They have the power, why is only the will lacking? The nuisance has been frequently alluded to and the police have got the excuse of ignorance of its existence.

To the interested Millman & Co. as their own work. Consequently they sell so cheap.

Congratulatory.

We warmly congratulate Mr Wm Middleton, for six years manager of Henderson's bookstore in Napanee on his having entered into partnership warrant was issued for his arrest but the police couldn't catch him as he fled the town. A few more escapes and Fred will think himself above all law, order and decency.

A Pre-historic Relic.

Mr. Inspector Burrows has shown us a copper corn planter found under a large pine stump hundreds of years old on his father's farm in the township of King near Toronto. The implement is about four inches long, two wide, and is made of unsmelted copper, simply beaten out, the handle dove-tailed into it. It must be of an age beyond any of the Indian tribes known to our history and Mr. B. thinks it is worth its weight in gold.

Our Iron Mines.

On Saturday last we had the pleasure of an interview with a Mr. Haman Chicago, representative of an iron works in Michigan in which iron is smelted on improved economic principles. In the manufacture of the charcoal used for smelting one of the residual products is an excellent alcohol. The firm he represents is a wealthy one, and Mr. H was so impressed with the richness of our iron ores that, if communication is opened into Sheffield the firm will start smelting works here. Mr. H also had with him asbestos gloves showing to what use that mineral can be put. That is another mineral source of wealth lying near Clair river that might be turned into wealth if we had a railway to make it come at-table.

Crickets Match.

On Wednesday last a game was played between the eleven of the Club and sixteen of all-comers. Only thirteen of the latter, however being on hand, three doubling at the bat. On motion, $7.15 were voted the cler for contingencies.

Fifth Day.—Saturday.

Council met at 10 A. M.

After routine,

A REEVE RESIGNS.

Mr. Warden read a telegram containing the resignation of Mr. Joyner, reeve of Sheffield, and his farewell to the council.

Moved by Mr. Murray, seconded by Mr. Deller, that this council being informed through the Warden, that Gider Joyner, Esq., reeve of Sheffield, has this day resigned his position as reeve, v desire to express our deep and sincere regret at parting with Mr. Joyner, at his resignation. We have always found him attentive to his duties as member of this council, and anxious at willing to work for the general good the county. Carried unanimously.

CONSOLIDATION OF COUNTY DEBT.

On motion of Mr. Woods, seconded by Mr. Downey, the Warden and Mr. Cat were appointed a committee to give prior notice of a bill to consolidate the floating debt of the county, and the committee were instructed to prepare a dra of a bill to be submitted at the December session.

On motion of Mr. Herring, second by Mr. Gilmore, Mr. G. Joyner's name was placed on the pay list for five days.

THE BUDGET.

Mr. Caton, chairman, presented a second report of the finance committee embodying the estimates for the current year:

The committee on Finance beg leave to report as follows, and would submit the following as the estimates for the current year:

Auctioneers and pedlars,	140
Grass,	1250

Total,	$16,200

The committee find that there is the hands of the treasurer the sum $11,245.31, with a further sum of $240.00 from the municipalities and are able to meet current expenses. We also find that the county has borrowed from Sheffield the sum of $5000, from Sou Fredericksburgh $2,500, and from Richmond $1,100, which, with interest up to the whole, amounts to $8,901. The sums constitute the floating debt of the county. To pay these claims the committee would recommend that the above sum of $8,901 be appropriated. This

Perry's Wollen Mills.

These wollen mills are now fixed up in first class condition; new machinery has been added, a spinning jack the best made, and the mill has been generally renovated and repaired and is now in condition to turn out the best possible work. Mr. Perry and his mill are both established and reliable and the public can count on getting satisfaction.

Another Nest of Iniquity.

On Monday night a raid was made on a moral pest house, the Humphrey habitation, and Mrs. Humphrey, Mary Baldwin and ——— Marsh were arrested. The hearing of the case was set down for to-day, (Friday.) It is to be hoped that these characters will be punished to the full extent of the law, and that no rest will be taken till the various other dens of iniquity that pollute the moral air and poison the domestic peace of Napanee, are rooted out like noxious weeds. Put them in jail; it is of no use to send them out of town, they will be sure to come back more brazen than ever.

Bad and Only Bad.

All the mistaken kidneys, and straining of points of law and equity that Fred Davis got the benefit of in the Harshaw case did no good. Last Sunday night watch-man, Emberson, arrested him from a drunken sleep on East street and in return for the kindness Davis assaulted Mr. E. and beat him shamefully. A warrant was issued for his arrest but the police couldn't catch him as he fled the town. A few more escapes and Fred will think himself above all law, order and decency.

A Pre-historic Relic.

Mr. Inspector Burrows has shown us a copper corn planter found under a large pine stump hundreds of years old on his father's farm in the township of King near Toronto. Mr. H. also had with him asbestos gloves time the draft of a bill for the purpose be prepared and submitted to the council at its next session for approval. Report adopted.

FACING THE MUSIC.

Moved by Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Joyner, that whereas this council have accepted from the surities of the late treasurer the amounts for which they were liable to the county as such surities and have been given receipts therefor, and whereas the council has not affirmed in any way that such moneys were justly due and that the right to recover and appropriate the same existed, and as the same and only evidence of such right is the report of commissioners appointed to examine into the finances of the county, be it therefore resolved that the report of the said commissioners be and is hereby adopted by this council.

THE DELAY DODGE.

Mr. Oaton moved, seconded by Mr. Paul, that the commissioners' report, together with the statement handed in by Mr. Hooper, late treasurer, be referred to the Finance Committee to examine and report upon to the council, and that the committee have power to take such action as they may think necessary to arrive at a proper understanding of the same.

The first of the new dining cars built at Point St. Charles has been placed on the G. T. R.R., making the first trip westward Wednesday. It only will run between Montreal and Lyn, but next week another car will be placed on the road, making the connections between Lyn and a point some distance west of Kingston. In the course of a short time, we promise, a dining car will be attached to every express and passenger train, so that delays at way stations for meals will not occur, and the usefulness and attractiveness of the railway restaurants will have ceased to exist. One who has seen and dined in the first of these cars says it is sixty feet in length, and is divided into three compartments the kitchen, the pantry, and the dining room. There is also a closet for wines, ale, etc., a wash-room, and an apartment for the stove which heats the dining room. The kitchen is fitted up with a complete cooking range, tanks for hot and cold water, an apparatus for keeping the meals hot, and many other conveniences. The windows are formed of perforated screenings. The pantry is equally complete. The dining room has a seating capacity for forty persons. In a recess in the side of the car, opposite each table, are shelves for holding wine glasses, spice bottles, cream jugs, etc., while hanging from the ceiling are four chandeliers, holding eight lights each. Handsome mirrors are encountered everywhere and the whole interior of the car is highly finished in oak.—Whig.

was read from the Education Department enclosing statement of the legislative grant to schools as follows: Amherst £154, Kildare and Angleson £108, Lunden £689, Denigh, Abinger and Abby £22, Ermentown £492, Sheffield £73, A. Dolphinstown £76, North Fredericksburgh £428, South Fredericksburgh £181, Richmond, £117: Total £392.

FINANCE.
Mr. Caton brought up the report of his committee on the sinking fund, which failed in the opinion of the committee, has it was inexpedient at the present time to create such a fund. The committee deemed it advisable to consolidate the debenture debt of the county, £160,000, and recommended that application be made to the legislature at its next session for an act to consolidate the debt and authorize the issue of debentures to run a term of years, to replace those now outstanding, the proceeds to be applied on their payment at maturity, that the equitable notice be given, and that mean-member of this council, and anxious and willing to work for the general good of the county. Carried unanimously.

CONSOLIDATION OF COUNTY DEBT.
On motion of Mr. Woods, seconded by Mr. Downey, the Warden and Mr. Caton were appointed a committee to give proper notice of a bill to consolidate the floating debt of the county, and the committee were instructed to prepare a draft of a bill to be submitted at the December session.
On motion of Mr. Herring, seconded by Mr. Gilmour, Mr. G. Joyner's name was placed on the pay list for five days.

THE BUDGET.
Mr. Caton, chairman, presented the second report of the finance committee, embodying the estimates for the current year:
The committee on Finance beg leave to report as follows, and would submit the following as the estimates for the current year:

Dues by municipalities,	11,245 21
Cash on hand,	11,245 21
Total,	$16,209.75

The committee find that there is in the hands of the treasurer the sum of $11,245.21, with a further sum of $240.54 due from the municipalities and available to meet current expenses. We also find that the county has borrowed from Sheffield the sum of $5000, from South Fredericksburgh $2,500, and from Richmond $1,100, which, with interest upon the whole, amounts to $8,901. These sums constitute the floating debt of the county. To pay these claims the committee would recommend that the above sum of $8,901 be appropriated. We estimate that we shall require the sum of $27,000 to meet the current expenses of the fiscal year. The estimated receipts with the balance now in the hands of the treasurer, after deducting $8901, amount to $20,042.25 to be provided for. Your committee therefore recommend that a rate of three mills in the dollar be levied to meet the estimated expenditure for the year 80-81. Your committee recommend that the appeal from the Kingston General Hospital be laid over till next session.

The report was adopted without discussion.

The by-law recited that the sum of $22,971.21 for general purposes and for public schools $3,199 should be raised on a total assessment of $657,070 $7,657,070, at a rate of three mills in the dollar.

New Dining Car.

The first of the new dining cars built at Point St. Charles has been placed on the G. T. R.R., making the first trip westward Wednesday. It only will run between Montreal and Lyn, but next week another car will be placed on the road, making the connections between Lyn and a point some distance west of Kingston. In the course of a short time, we promise, a dining car will be attached to every express and passenger train, so that delays at way stations for meals will not occur, and the usefulness and attractiveness of the railway restaurants will have ceased to exist. One who has seen and dined in the first of these cars says it is sixty feet in length, and is divided into three compartments the kitchen, the pantry, and the dining room. There is also a closet for wines, ale, etc., a wash-room, and an apartment for the stove which heats the dining room. The kitchen is fitted up with a complete cooking range, tanks for hot and cold water, an apparatus for keeping the meals hot, and many other conveniences. The windows are formed of perforated screenings. The pantry is equally complete. The dining room has a seating capacity for forty persons. In a recess in the side of the car, opposite each table, are shelves for holding wine glasses, spice bottles, cream jugs, etc., while hanging from the ceiling are four chandeliers, holding eight lights each. Handsome mirrors are encountered everywhere and the whole interior of the car is highly finished in oak.—Whig.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Preparing Buckwheat Ground.

It is common among farmers to delay plowing their buckwheat land till a short time before sowing which is about the first of July, when the weather is hot, and the ground often dry and hard; it then breaks up in lumps. I have known rain to occur at the time, so that the ground turned up wet; and nothing can be worse than to turn up clay in this condition at this time of year, and have the sun bake it. It is sure to spoil the crop and hurt the land. And little better is it in the other case, as the lumps cannot be reduced to mellowness, and only partially so with rains to soften them. The plowing must be done, as the sowing cannot be delayed, whether the ground is wet or dry. The remedy is to prepare the ground early. Plow when in the right condition, whether sooner or later, and a good seed bed can be secured. This also gives a chance for a second plowing or working with cultivator or harrow. There is no weather so favorable for pulverizing the soil as in the heat and showers of summer. The effect of the fallow can thus be given the land, the shading of the soil by the buckwheat preventing the weeds from appearing, thus clearing the land. In the spring it will be found to be clean and mellow, if not too roor or too clayey, and needs only the cultivator and harrow to put it in good condition for a crop. Much good can be done the land by preparing it well for buckwheat.

This crop usually receives the worst attention, particularly on clay soil. The worst land is given to buckwheat; and this will do if thorough work is made of it. It is also a good time to work in manure, spreading it on the land some time before it is plowed, so that the soluble parts can be rained into the soil, always remembering that if evenly spread so as to cover the entire surface, the whole area will be saturated with the fertilizing liquid. Plow shallow, and work the soil well. This can hardly fail to produce a heavy growth, shading densely the ground, so that no weeds or grasses can live, and the ground will be sure to work up mellow with the cultivator for the next crop, no plowing being needed.

Woman's Paradise.

The married woman of Illinois acquired by the law of 1874 the right to do almost everything. They can sue and be sued in their own names. They can—blessed privilege—sue their own particular tyrants. When a husband deserts his wife, the latter has the custody of her children. If the husband stays out of the State a year and does nothing to support the wife during that time, or if he is imprisoned in the penitentiary, the wife can, upon obtaining an order from a court of record manage his property absolutely. The wife is not at all liable for the husband's debts incurred before marriage, and only in exceptional circumstances for those incurred afterward. She can manage any business independently, except in case of a partnership, which she cannot enter without her husband's consent. A wife's earnings cannot be touched by her husband or his creditors. A married woman can acquire, manage, and sell real and personal prop-

SUNDAY READING.

The Power of Song.

In one of the hospitals of Edinburgh, lay a wounded Scotch soldier. The surgeons had done all they could for him. He had been told he must die. He had a contempt for death, and prided himself on his fearlessness in facing it.

A rough and wicked life, with none but evil associates, had blunted his sensibilities, and made profanity and scorn his second nature. To hear him speak one would have thought he had no piously-natured childhood to remember, and that he had never looked upon religion but to despise it. But it was not so.

A noble and gentle hearted man came to see the dying soldier. He addressed him with kind inquiries, talked to him tenderly of the life beyond death, and offered spiritual counsel. But the sick man paid him no attention or respect. He bluntly told him that he did not want any religious conversation.

"You will let me pray with you, will you not?" said the man at length.

"No; I know how to die without the help of religion." And he turned his face to the wall.

Further conversation could do no good, and the man did not attempt it. But he was not discouraged. After a moment's silence he began to sing the old hymn, so familiar and so dear to every congregation in Scotland:—

"Oh mother dear, Jerusalem—
When shall I come to thee?"

He had a pleasant voice, and the words and melody were sweet and touching as he sung them. Pretty soon the soldier turned his face again, but its hardened expression was all gone.

"Who taught you that?" he asked, when the hymn was done.

"My mother."

"So did mine. I learned it of her when I was a child, and I used to sing it with her when I was with her." And there were tears in the man's eyes.

The ice was thawed away. It was easy to talk with him now. The words of Jesus entered in where the hymn had opened the door. Weeping, and with a hungry heart, he listened to the Christian's thoughts of death, and in his last moments to his mother's God and the sinner's friend.

Our Mothers.

In the formation of character, we owe to our mothers more than to any other human agency, for it is their hands that first twine the tendrils of our hearts, guide our footsteps aright, lead us in the path of virtue, and in the dark, dreary night of pain, their watchful vigils keep beside the couch of their dear ones. Whose but the all-seeing eye of Jehovah can fathom the depths of anxiety they feel, and who can tell of the ceaseless prayers which they offer for their sin-stricken children?

Their influence ever shines with an unsullied light which softens and purifies the wayward impulses of the youthful mind, and guides it onward in its course toward heaven. How then, can we pay just tribute to our mothers—with what measures of gratitude and affection shall we requite them for their maternal care.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct in like itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis, and disposes of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung and membrane. The phosphorus, lime, and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed on it. Prepared by NORTHROP and LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

AS SURELY AS EFFECT FOLLOWS CAUSE surely will Quinine effectually fasten upon a system deficient in vital energy. Tonic medication is not resorted to in the functions of the body is to disorder organs. Invigoration, prompt and rough, the only safeguard. No amount of depleted physical energy, no torative of lost flesh nerve power cheerfulness, has more clearly demonstrated its efficacy than Northrop and Lyman's Quinine Wine. In this preparation united with the salutary medicines which form its basis, is pure sherry wine certain aromatic constituents, which in an agreeable taste to the article, and in addition emphasis to its effects. In general debility and dyspepsia it is valuable and the desired effect is, in vast majority of cases, remarkably pronounced as well as decisive. That good an appetite, which gives a relish for the most fare, is insured by the use of Quinine Wine, which also confers brain and body refreshing sleep. Fever, acute and bilious remittent fever, arises from the eradication of which it is easily adapted; but it should be used in the intervals between the attacks. The far-reaching effects of a good tonic all complaints involving loss of physical energy, are well understood by physicians and the comprehensive influence for of this preparation upon the system far to bear out the professional belief the value of invigorants as opposers of disease. Be sure to ask for the "Quinine Wine" prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto. Sold by all druggists.

Woman's Paradise.

The married woman of Illinois acquired by the law of 1874 the right to do almost everything. They can sue and be sued in their own names. They can—blessed privilege—sue their own particular tyrants. When a husband deserts his wife, the latter has the custody of her children. If the husband stays out of the State a year and does nothing to support the wife during that time, or if he is imprisoned in the penitentiary, the wife can, upon obtaining an order from a court of record manage his property absolutely. The wife is not at all liable for the husband's debts incurred before marriage, and only in exceptional circumstances for those incurred afterward. She can manage any business independently, except in case of a partnership, which she cannot enter without her husband's consent. A wife earnings cannot be touched by her husband or his creditors. A married woman can acquire, possess, and sell real and personal property as freely as a married man can. This list of abilities is expected to be largely increased the present year—so as to include suffrage and other incidentals.

Sleep and Waste of Life.

Sleep will do much to cure irritability of temper, peevishness, and uneasiness. It will build and make strong a weary body. It will do much to cure dyspepsia, particularly that variety known as nervous dyspepsia. It will relieve the languor and prostration felt by consumptives. It will cure hypochondria. It will cure the headache. It will cure neuralgia. It will cure a broken spirit. It will cure sorrow. Now, no man should do more work of muscle or of brain in a day, than he can perfectly recover from the fatigue of in a good night's rest. Up to that point, exercise is good; beyond, are waste of life, exhaustion and decay. When hunger calls for food, and fatigue demands rest, we are in natural order, and keep the balance of life.—When we take stimulants to spur our jaded nerves or excite an appetite, we are wasting life. There are wrong and mischief in all waste of life. A man should live so as to keep himself at his best, and with true economy. To eat more food than is needful, is worse policy than tossing money into the sea. It is a waste of labor and a waste of life.

Eggs Devitalized by Thunder.

I noticed in a recent issue that C. B. mentioned the old-wives' notion that thunder will render eggs addle. This notion is a very old one, which, like many other similar ones, has been proved untrue by the light of science. The elder Pliny, in his Natural History, said that "if it happen to thunder during the time of incubation, the eggs are addled," and "if the cry of a hawk is heard, the eggs are spoiled." He said that "the best remedy against the effects of thunder is to put an iron nail beneath the straw on which the eggs are laid, or else some earth from off when I was a child, and I used to sing it with her when I was with her." And there were tears in the man's eyes.

The ice was thawed away. It was easy to talk with him now. The words of Jesus entered in where the hymn had opened the door. Weeping, and with a hungry heart, he listened to the Christian's thoughts of death, and in his last moments to his mother's God and the sinner's friend.

How then, can we pay just tribute to our mothers—with what measures of gratitude and affection shall we requite them for their maternal care.

To those who have lost their mothers in early life, there is the hallowed spot, sacred to memory, where they retrospect the past—recall days and nights when their mothers kept watch over their sinless years, and where they may look forward, with hope and faith, to the blessed re-unions of the everlasting future.

Friends may be torn from our hearts, hopes may be blasted, and our love for others may grow cold, yet every principle of gratitude and every feeling of virtuous sensibility requires that we should cling to our mothers and love them still.

I would have a great deal more hospitality practised than is common among us—more hospitality and less show. Properly considered, the quality of dinner is twice blessed; it blesses him that gives and him that takes. On the Bay of Quinte.

I HAVE every reason to feel satisfied with the encouragement the Steamer Hastings has received during the severe competition existing on the Bay for some years past. The Prince Edward Railway, however, and yet another steamer are now added to this competition, rendering it very doubtful whether the business will support all the present facilities. The results, so far, of the recent additions would indicate that the Hastings can still be maintained.

Believing it to be an advantage to the public to have a steamer of her strength and accommodations on the route, I have no hesitation in asking for the necessary support, and have faith that it will be forthcoming as long as it is deserved.

Purifying Cisterns.

By what means can I purify a cistern in which the water has a very disagreeable smell? If the foul odor come from decaying insects or animals in the cistern, it should be cleaned out. Sometimes water when confined from the air undergoes a sort of fermentation (common in water casks on shipboard) and in a few weeks becomes sweet and clean. Stirring will sometimes answer.

We look back to former times and the struggles that then were, and wish that we had been helpers in the fight; but there is honorable warfare now, and if we see not what must be done now, or have not the courage to do it if we can see, neither should we have had vision or courage then.

Cure for Hydrophobia.

The recipe is that of M. Cassar, a French physician:—Take two table-spoonfuls of fresh chloride of lime, mix it with half a pint of water, and with this wash keep the wound constantly bathed and frequently renewed. The chlorine gas possesses the power of decomposing this tremendous poison, and renders mild and harmless that venom against whose resistless attack the artillery of medical science has been so long directed in vain. It is unnecessary to add that this wash should be applied as soon as possible after the infliction of the bite. The following are the results of this treatment: From 1810 to 1824, the number of persons admitted into Breslau Hospital were 184, of whom only two died; from 1783 to 1824, there were admitted into the hospital at Zurich 223 persons bitten by different animals (182 by dogs) of whom only four died.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, is like itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis, and dis eases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime, and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation which both time and experience hath demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed on it. Prepared by NORTHROP and LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

AS SURELY AS EFFECT FOLLOWS CAUSE, so surely will Quinine effectually fasten itself upon a system deficient in vital energy, if tonic medication is not resorted to in time. The functions of the body is to disorder its organs. Invigoration, prompt and thorough, the only safeguard. No resort of implected physical energy, no restorative of lost flesh nerve power and cheerfulness, has more clearly demonstrated its efficacy than Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. In this preparation associated with the salutary medicines which form its basis, is pure sherry wine and certain aromatic constituents, which impart an agreeable taste to the article, and gives additional emphasis to its effects. In cases of general debility and dyspepsia it is invaluable and the desired effect is, in the vast majority of cases, remarkably prompt as well as decisive. That good natural appetite, which gives a relish for the coarsest fare, is insured by the use of Quinine Wine, which also confers brain soothing and body refreshing sleep. Fever and ague and bilious remittent fever, are diseases to the eradication of which it is specially adapted; but it should be used only in the intervals between the seizures. The far-reaching effects of a good tonic, in all complaints involving loss of physical energy, are well understood by physicians, and the comprehensive influence for good of this preparation upon the system goes far to bear out the professional belief in the value of invigorants as opponents of disease. Be sure to ask for the "Quinine Wine" prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto. Sold by all druggists.

The Great Shoshonees Remedy and Pills.

The success that these medicines have met with since their introduction to the public some years ago, proves plainly to the most sceptical that they are medicines that perform what they advertise to do. The virtues of these medicines have been well tested, and have withstood their trial in a most satisfactory manner. For diseases of the Blood, Liver, Lungs, &c., they are unsurpassed. We have testimonials of miraculous cures of these diseases, and of many others, if any one is afflicted, let him try a bottle of the Remedy and a box of Pills. No injurious effects will follow their use to the most delicate person, as they are purely vegetable, there being no mineral matter in them. The cost is small, while the advantages derived from their use will doubly repay you for your expense and trouble.

Try these great remedies and be convinced that they are no humbug. No one who has tried the Shoshonees Pills has ever pronounced an unfavorable opinion of them; no family where they have been used will be without them. Full information may be had on all particulars touching the use, and the experience of those who have used them, by securing the Treatise or Circular from your druggist free. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

TO THE PUBLIC On the Bay of Quinte.

I HAVE every reason to feel satisfied with the encouragement the Steamer Hastings has received during the severe competition existing on the Bay for some years past.

The Prince Edward Railway, however, and yet another steamer are now added to this competition, rendering it very doubtful whether the business will support all the present facilities.

The results, so far, of the recent additions would indicate that the Hastings can still be maintained.

Believing it to be an advantage to the public to have a steamer of her strength and accommodations on the route, I have no hesitation in asking for the necessary support, and have faith that it will be forthcoming as long as it is deserved.

PEPPER'S QUININE and IRON
TONIC contains an unvarying amount of quinine and iron. It possesses all the powers of these valuable agents in banishing disease and symptoms traceable to weakness, a low state of the nervous system, enfeebled condition of the body, and derangement of the general health.

PEPPER'S QUININE and IRON
TONIC strengthens the nervous and muscular system, improves digestion, animates the spirits, recruits the health. For debilitated health from the effect of hot climates this tonic is invaluable.

PEPPER'S QUININE and IRON
TONIC raises and develops the nervous energies, enriches the blood, promotes appetite, dispels languor and depression, fortifies the digestive organs. Is a specific remedy for neuralgia, ague, indigestion, fevers of every kind, chest affections, and in wasting diseases, scrofulous tendencies, &c. The whole frame is greatly invigorated by Pepper's Tonic, the mental faculties brightened, the constitution greatly strengthened, and a return to robust health certain. Bottles, 32 doses 4s. 6d. net size, 11s. Sold by Chemists everywhere. The name of J. Pepper, Bedford Laboratory, London, must be on the label. There is no Tonic so certain in effect as Pepper's Quinine and Iron. It is strongly recommended to residents in India and the Colonies, and should always be kept ready for use in every case of fever or febrile condition.

TARAXACUM and PODOPHYLLIN.
Prepared only by J. Pepper, London. This fluid combination, extracted from medical roots, is now used instead of blue pill and calomel for the cure of dyspepsia, biliousness, and all symptoms of congestion of the liver, which are generally pain beneath the shoulders, head-ache, drowsiness, no appetite, fatigued tongue, disagreeable taste in the morning, riddiness, disturbance of the stomach, and feeling of general depression. It sets the sluggish liver in motion, very slightly acts on the bowels, giving a sense of health and comfort within 24 hours. It is the safest medicine. Taraxacum and Podophyllin is a fluid made only by J. PEPPER, Bedford Laboratory, London, whose name is on every bottle. Bottles, 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. Sold by all Chemists. Most valuable and essential medicine for Australia, the Cape, and Colonies generally.

LOCKYER'S SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER will darken grey hair, and in a few days completely bring back the natural color. The effect is superior to that produced by an instantaneous dye, and does not injure the skin. Large bottles, 1s. 6d.—Lockyer's is equal to the most expensive hair restorer.

LOCKYER'S SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER is the best for restoring grey hair to its former color. It produces a perfectly natural shade, and is absolutely harmless. Recommended for destroying scurf and encouraging growth of new hair.

LOCKYER'S SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER—Sulphur being highly prized for its stimulant, cleansing, healthful action on the hair glands, LOCKYER'S RESTORER is strongly recommended. It is most agreeable in use, and never fails in its action on the color glands, always restoring and maintaining that which has been lost. No other hair dressing is equal to it. Large bottles, 1s. 6d. Sold by Chemists, Hairdressers, and Perfumers in London, the Country, and throughout the world. Lockyer's is equal to any of the high-priced preparations.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the he all of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the cure of many of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible Rubber, and Eucalypti Pitch, which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker and more effectually than any other Plaster, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; if a plaster is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, sup-

Mitchell's Belladonna's Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the health of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making the Plaster are Gum Olibanum or better known as a the Franchise of the Bible Rubber, and Eucalyptus Pitch, which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race. They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, GOUT, COLIC, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, HEART or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plaster contains, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACK PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of the standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of them of a Consumption.
